

Labor Federation Will Probe Right To Impeach Abbott

Action Is Taken After Fulton Official Is Condemned for "Violation of Campaign Pledge."

COMMITTEE IS NAMED TO PROBE SITUATION

Abbott's Attack in Courts on Change to Salary System Is Assailed by Many Speakers.

After denouncing the action of W. H. Abbott, tax receiver of Fulton county, in entering suit to void the new salary law, and declaring that in doing so he has violated his campaign pledges, the Atlanta Federation of Trades Wednesday night instructed its executive committee to make an investigation to ascertain whether impeachment proceedings are possible.

This action followed a spirited fight during which charges were made that the tax receiver is fighting the desires of the people, which he had expressly agreed to accept, and was violating his moral obligations to the voters.

Motion Adopted. The motion that was adopted by the federation was introduced originally by William Pollard, of the Electrical Workers' union, who made a vigorous attack upon the public official, and then offered a motion calling upon the federation to instruct its executive committee to at once investigate the matter of Abbott's test case with a view toward impeachment. This was amended by Carl Karstson, who suggested that the motion read as follows:

"The Atlanta Federation of Trades condemn the action of Tax Receiver W. H. Abbott in taking the salary system into the courts, and the executive committee is instructed to investigate the matter to determine if it would be possible to institute impeachment proceedings against the tax receiver for violation of his campaign pledge to the people."

This change was made after Delegate James A. Miller, of the city and county employees' union, who is attorney for the federation, had expressed the opinion that it would be impossible to impeach an official for merely testing constitutionality of a law. He advised the federation against taking any action, pending decision of the supreme court. He stated, however, that he was for the salary system and that he knew Abbott had violated his campaign promise to the people. He said that he had heard Abbott make the statement several times before the election that he would accept the change in the system of payment to county officials and servants.

Pollard Attacks Abbott. William Pollard, who made the motion to investigate with a view toward impeachment of County Tax Receiver Abbott, made a vigorous attack upon what he charged was an attempt to defeat the will of the people.

"We would like to know," said Mr. Pollard, "whether Abbott is alone in this attempt to violate the people's desires, or whether other officials are lacking him up. We do know that he has violated his pledge to the people to accept this system, and now that he has secured the office, he seeks through a technicality to break his pledge."

The speaker admitted that any man has the right to test the constitutionality of a law, but suggested that the motive in this instance is not the good of the people but the difference between $7,500 a year, the salary the receiver would receive under the new law, and $5,000 a year, the salary he would receive under the old law.

ENGLAND TO SHARE FRENCH PAYMENTS, CHURCHILL STATES

British Chancellor Asserts His Country's Intention To Participate Simultaneously, Proportionally.

BY CHARLES M. MCANN. London, December 10.—Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer and one of the most spectacular and combative personalities in British public life, has firmly announced his country's intention to participate in any payments France may be able to make toward the discharge of her debts.

Speaking in the house of commons in reply to David Lloyd-George's criticism of the inter-allied debt situation, Churchill stated the conservative policy Wednesday, and in so doing injected a rebuke to the French for failure to meet their obligations.

"It is essential that any payment by our debtors in Europe to the United States should be accompanied by a simultaneous and proportionate payment to us," Churchill declared.

Cheers Greet Statement. The commons liked the sentiment and the manner in which it was spoken. Cheers came from all sides of the house.

What reaction Churchill's statement will have in France and what effect it may exert on France's debt negotiations with the United States remain to be seen, but there is a distinct feeling here now that at least a few interested parties know where England stands.

Churchill will endeavor to enforce the decision of his government when he attends the conference of interallied finance ministers in Paris next month. "I will try to find there a practical solution for the difficult problems which the allies must face in common," he continued.

"Whatever opinions may be held relative to the Anglo-American debt settlement, it is made and must be made good. The settlement placed Britain in an extraordinarily good position. We regained our independence and freedom and can look everyone in the face."

Must Form Starting Point. "That settlement must form the starting point of any future treatment of debts owed to Great Britain. The foundation of our policies toward our allies still is that we seek no more from them and our former enemies together than would enable us to discharge our obligations to the United States."

Churchill softened his remarks by explaining that Great Britain does not want to hinder any negotiations for the mutual benefit of two nations friendly to Great Britain with whom she was allied and associated during the war. The chancellor interpreted the Franco-American debt conversations as mere tentative discussions.

SLAYER OF WIFE IS FOUND GUILTY

Rufus Bird Given Life Sentence—Defendant Was Sentenced To Be Hanged at First Trial.

Rufus Bird, who was convicted last March of the murder of his wife and sentenced to die on the gallows, Wednesday night was found guilty a second time with recommendations for mercy. Judge John B. Hutcheson, presiding at the trial in DeKalb superior court, sentenced the defendant to life imprisonment.

Testimony was begun Wednesday morning, the defense seeking to prove that the slayer is insane. Bird was charged with murdering his wife with an iron bar at the home of Mrs. O. L. Morris, Drexel avenue, Decatur, daughter of the principals.

Story of Killing. Hearing of testimony ended about 6 o'clock Wednesday night and rebuttal arguments were begun at a night session of the court.

Mrs. Morris graphically described events leading up to the death of her mother, who she said was stabbed to death with an ice pick as she held a small child in her arms. She took the stand as the first witness of the prosecution in the second trial when the case was opened. Bird was convicted and sentenced to be hanged last March, but was granted a new trial when his attorneys presented affidavits purporting to give new evidences of insanity.

Raymond Bird, street car conductor, and son of the accused, said that his father went to Decatur on his car the morning of the tragedy and appeared "not himself." The father got off the car at the stop nearest the residence of Mrs. Morris, on Drexel avenue, the son said. Reasons for thinking the father unbalanced were

MINISTRY OF MARX DECIDES TO OFFER ITS RESIGNATION

Formal Resignations Probably Will Be Handed to Ebert Within Next Few Days.

NATIONALISTS MAY GET PLACE IN NEW CABINET

Downfall of Marx Ministry Due to Refusal of Folks Party To Enter Quadruple Coalition.

BY ERIC KEYSER. Berlin, December 10.—The cabinet, headed by Chancellor Marx, has decided to resign owing to the refusal of Foreign Minister Stresemann's folks party to enter a four-party coalition government which would include the socialists. Marx has arranged an interview with President Ebert to determine the date of the cabinet resignation.

The formal resignation of the cabinet probably will take place in a few days. In sources close to the chancellor, it is indicated that the upshot of the situation is likely to be the formation of a bourgeois bloc, to include the nationalists.

This development is expected, partly because the nationalists desire to try their hand at governing, and partly because their opponents want to maneuver them into an impossible position, expecting their efforts to collapse after the first of the year, when the entente declines to evacuate the Cologne zone.

Efforts Will Fail.

The republicans, thereupon, will be able to say that the nationalists have failed to accomplish anything. The socialists, on the other hand, announce that they do not intend to be "terrorized by a hundred nationalists," and declare they have reason to believe that President Ebert will ask Chancellor Marx to form a new cabinet. If the latter eventually comes to pass, Marx must approach the socialists for cooperation.

By allowing them some temporary power, the nationalists will expend themselves, their opponents believe, and the republican elements will return to more complete control.

FIRE OF EXAMINER SHAKES MORTIMER

Intense Cross-Examination Develops Flaws in Testimony of Star Witness in Conspiracy Case.

Chicago, December 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—Hours of intense cross-examination today developed several flaws in the story of Elias H. Mortimer, chief government witness in the Forbes conspiracy trial, concerning his attempts to secure veteran bureau hospital contracts through corrupt acts.

"That was my recollection at the time," Mortimer said when confronted with exhibits of his testimony before the senate committee, which differed substantially from his direct testimony at the present trial.

"I don't remember," he answered several times during the day when asked to explain to the jury these apparent inconsistencies in his story. Mortimer was on the witness stand today for his third day of cross-examination in a trial of Charles R. Forbes, former director of the veterans' bureau, and John W. Thompson, Chicago, and St. Louis contractor, charged with conspiracy to defraud the government in hospital construction awards during Forbes' administration.

Eager To Testify. He appeared eager at times to go beyond the scope of the question of the examiner in making his answer and succeeded by this method in again giving vent to his enmity for Forbes. "I gave him a thousand dollars in cash and he would have given me more if he had left my wife alone," the witness said in answer to a question as to how he paid Forbes his share of an alleged bribe.

James S. Easty-Smith, chief counsel for Forbes, completing his cross-examination at the morning session centered on Mortimer's indictment in New York in May, 1922, for violation of the Volstead act, "without a trial" after Mortimer had explained the "circumstances of the indictment to Mrs. Mabel G. Willebrandt, assistant attorney general."

Pretty Girl, 16, Goes to Church Then Disappears

Sends Mother Word "I Am Leaving for Parts Unknown."

Two hours after Ruby Lee Hudgins, 16 and pretty, kissed her mother good-bye and left ostensibly for church Wednesday night, the mother, Mrs. J. R. Hudgins, of 134 Crew street, received a telegram, filed at the main office of a local telegraph company, saying:

"Mother, I am leaving for parts unknown."

That was all the trace the young woman left for the police to work on, except that the prostrated mother gave the authorities the name of a young man with whom Ruby Lee had been warned not to associate, developing a theory that the girl may have been lured away.

Ruby Lee reached church all right, for she was seen there by an aunt, the mother, broken and in tears, told a reporter for The Constitution, as the girl's party to enter a four-party coalition government which would include the socialists. Marx has arranged an interview with President Ebert to determine the date of the cabinet resignation.

Police have a description of the missing girl, who is reported to be unusually attractive and as having many friends in Atlanta.

Her mother was too ill Wednesday night to do more than cry out that "someone has stolen my baby girl."

AUGUST BELMONT, BANKER, TURFMAN, DIES IN NEW YORK

Blood Poison in Right Arm Fatal To Sportsman After Illness of Little More Than 24 Hours.

New York, December 10.—Major August Belmont, 71, financier and turfman, died at his apartment, 250 Park avenue, at 6:30 tonight after an illness of little more than 24 hours. The cause of his death was given in the medical certificate as "ill cellulitis complicated by septicemia."

At his bedside at the time of his death were Mrs. Belmont and his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Belmont. The other surviving member of the family, Captain Raymond Belmont, was in his home at Middleburgh, Va., at the time of his father's death.

Mr. Belmont's death came with startling suddenness. In good health until yesterday morning, when he complained of a slight indisposition, he went to his office at noon. About 2 o'clock in the afternoon he showed signs of illness to such an extent that his son, Morgan, accompanied him home.

Later in the afternoon, his right arm began to trouble Mr. Belmont, and blood poisoning set in. He was operated on this morning in his apartment, five surgeons taking part. To the encouragement of those attending.

NEW OFFER MADE FOR TERMINALS

J. E. T. Bowden Sends Letter to Governor Walker Making Bid for Chattanooga Property.

Making the second offer during the past week for purchase of the Georgian-owned railroad terminal property in Chattanooga, State Senator J. E. T. Bowden, of Waycross, prominent real estate man, has written Governor Walker offering to post a guarantee to sell the property for a greater return to the state than could be received under the recent bid by C. E. James, Chattanooga capitalist.

Senator Bowden points out that Mr. James offered $3,000,000, one-third cash and the balance payable semi-annually for 10 years with five per cent interest. The new offer, with a guarantee of a minimum price of $3,000,000 calls for one-fourth cash and the balance in nine annual payments at six per cent interest.

Under his proposal, he would sell the property at auction in separate units, after giving Chattanooga right-of-way for extension of Broad street, on condition that the city open and develop the street, with paving and other improvements.

His plan provides that the state shall not give title to any purchaser until total sales reach $3,000,000 or six per cent interest.

Mr. Bowden is to post a cash bond of $25,000 within three days of acceptance of his offer by the state.

After the auction sale, the first $3,000,000 received is to go to the state; the next $300,000 to Mr. Bowden; the next $250,000 or part thereof to the state; the next $250,000 or part thereof to Mr. Bowden and the balance to be equally divided. Mr. Bowden agrees to take his share on the same basis as the state—one-fourth cash and the balance in nine annual installments at six per cent interest.

Governor Walker Tuesday rejected the offer made by Mr. James, but had not made known his decision in regard to the Bowden offer Wednesday night.

RECONCILIATION ENDS CANDLER SEPARATION; WIFE RETURNS HOME

ESTRANGED BRIDE PLEADS TO POLICE TO BAR PURSUERS

Chicago, December 10.—Mrs. Dorothy Hillman, the bride of a month who a week ago hurriedly fled to New York from her husband, Edward Hillman, Jr., member of a millionaire family, returned to Chicago today with her mother. The return also was a journey of speed, made on a limited train, terminating in an automobile dash across Chicago, followed by a taxicab filled with girl reporters.

Mrs. Hillman had nothing to say, or at least nothing intended for publication, although she paused twice. Once she objected to photographers setting off flashlights in the railway station, and then made a futile attempt to have a traffic policeman stop girl pursuers who observed that she went to her mother's home in Evanston instead of the Hillman bridal apartment.

"Traditional differences between the major parties have quite disappeared," said Governor Ritchie, adding that there never were more than two, the tariff and states' rights.

All others, he said, were minor issues, created for campaign purposes and only distantly related to fundamental party platforms.

Tariff For Revenue Passe.

Governor Ritchie, said he did not believe there was anyone who thought that if the democrats had won the 1924 elections, there would be a tariff for revenue only. He said the democratic platform made no such promise, for party leaders knew that strict fulfillment be impracticable.

As for states' rights, the speaker continued, both parties had come to champion or combat certain measures which affected the principle of local self government and "both parties include persons who want to make an exception in the case of something in which they are interested—child labor or federal control over education or prohibition or health or state aid for internal improvements or something else."

"Is there, then, nothing in the policies of the country upon which the people really divide?" he asked. "Must the parties continue on their opportunistic careers? Is there not something to rekindle the historic differences between them which, in days gone by, made them parties of principle, not expediency?"

Must Discard Sectionalism.

There is not, he said, if the country has become so vast as to take its politics sectionally, so that national institutions and national questions of principle no longer come first. Nor is there "if it is true that the forces in control of national conventions and party platforms are afraid of issues, because to be on one side of an issue makes you sure of losing, the votes of those on the other side."

Governor Ritchie believed he voiced the conviction of millions of American citizens when he said the time was ripe for the rekindling of traditional

WOMEN HIT FIGHT ON SALARY SYSTEM

League of Voters Rap Efforts of W. H. Abbott To Forestall Fixing of Fulton Salaries.

Resolutions condemning the action of W. H. Abbott, Fulton county tax receiver, in fighting the fixing of salaries under the new law, were adopted recently by the Atlanta League of Women Voters, it was made public Wednesday.

The announcement was made by Mrs. Sanford Guy, president of the Atlanta league, who, in discussing the situation, declared that her organization felt that the salaries fixed by the county commission were "too high," pointing out that the sole purpose of the new law was to "save money." She declared that some of the officials who, under the new salary schedule, are receiving "excessively high" compensation, would be "unable to earn $2,400 a year anywhere else."

In the resolutions condemning Mr. Abbott, it was pointed out that the people of Fulton county had voted overwhelmingly to abolish the fee system, and that the league was instrumental in passage of the bill.

Tax Payers To Meet. It also became known Wednesday that the Atlanta Tax Payers' league would call a public meeting shortly at which may be considered a protest of the salary schedule fixed by the county commission. Frank Weldon, secretary of the league, stated that the matter of a public meeting was being considered, with prospects of definite plans to be announced in the next two days.

A special meeting of the Fulton county commission has been called for December 17, at which the wide protests against the salary schedule

NEED TO REKINDLE OLD PARTY BELIEFS IS SEEN BY RITCHIE

Republicans and Democrats Should Divide Again Upon Principle, Says Maryland Governor.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

New York, December 10.—Governor Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, voiced tonight, at the annual dinner of the Southern Society of New York, a conviction that the time had come for the republican and democratic parties "to rekindle some of the beliefs which vitalized them in the past and to divide once again on principle."

"Traditional differences between the major parties have quite disappeared," said Governor Ritchie, adding that there never were more than two, the tariff and states' rights.

All others, he said, were minor issues, created for campaign purposes and only distantly related to fundamental party platforms.

Capitalist Declines To Comment on Situation, Declaring "This Is Purely Personal Matter."

REUNION VERIFIED BY CANDLER FAMILY

Attorney Not Yet Instructed To Ask Dismissal of Pending Divorce Proceedings.

Reconciliation between Asa G. Candler, Atlanta capitalist, and his wife, from whom he has been separated for a number of months, has been effected.

Mrs. Candler returned to the paternal Candler home at 1040 Ponce de Leon avenue Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, after having lived with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Little, on East Pace's Ferry road, for the past several months.

Mr. Candler declined to comment on the situation when Constitution reporters communicated with him Wednesday night.

"This is purely a personal matter and I decline to discuss it," was all he would say.

Members of Mr. Candler's family, however, on being questioned by Constitution representatives, later verified the truth of Mrs. Candler's return to the Ponce de Leon avenue home.

Efforts to communicate with the family of Mrs. Candler were unavailing Wednesday night, it being reported that no one was at the East Pace's Ferry road home.

William D. Thomson, attorney for Mr. Candler, told The Constitution that he had received no instructions to ask dismissal of the divorce proceedings brought by Mr. Candler now pending in DeKalb county. This step, however, is expected to follow immediately. Mr. Thomson declined to comment upon the Candler reconciliation.

Atlanta Alumnae Meet Today To Discuss Rebuilding Plans At State College for Women

Conference at Piedmont With President of Milledgeville School—Directors To Meet.

Atlanta and Decatur alumnae of the Georgia State College for Women at Milledgeville, which recently suffered loss of one of its main buildings by fire, will meet at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the Piedmont hotel with Dr. M. M. Parks, president of the college, to discuss plans for rebuilding.

Mrs. W. R. Wilson, 531 South Candler street, Decatur, president of the local alumnae association, stated Wednesday that no collection would be taken at this meeting. Mrs. Wilson was in touch with Dr. Parks by long distance telephone during the day and afterwards issued an urgent appeal for every G. S. C. W. graduate in Atlanta or nearby towns to attend the meeting.

After the alumnae conference Dr. Parks will attend a meeting of directors of the college.

Mrs. Wilson quoted Dr. Parks as stating that there is a possibility the college may decide to erect two buildings instead of one to replace the old building destroyed by fire last Monday night. Almost $20,000 voluntary subscriptions to the rebuilding fund have been received since the fire, it is said.

The building which was destroyed was valued on the state records at $50,000 and it is understood carried fire insurance protection amounting to only $24,000.

Milledgeville, Ga., December 10.—(Special).—The alumnae and former students of the Georgia State College for Women who are living in Atlanta have been requested to meet at the Piedmont hotel at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

This meeting has been called by Miss Rachel Shaw, of Savannah, president of the alumnae association, who desires the alumnae to meet with President M. M. Parks for a conference with him concerning the crisis brought upon the college by the disastrous fire last Monday.

President Parks will also attend a meeting of the board of directors which has been called by Judge Rice and B. Russell, chairman of the board of directors, the meeting to be held in the Piedmont hotel at 8 o'clock Thursday evening.

The students of the college are greatly distressed at the crisis brought upon the college by the fire which destroyed the main college building and practically all of its contents.

Without any solicitation of any kind the students have been begging for an opportunity to help. After a meeting in their various dormitories they marched to the chapel exercises on Wednesday morning and made large subscriptions amounting to nearly $10,000.

The freshmen class voluntarily subscribed $2,000. The sophomore and normal class subscribed $1,000. The junior class subscribed $1,000. The senior class subscribed $1,000. Other students funds amounting to nearly $3,000 were also pledged. This makes the total of all the pledges $9,000, voluntarily pledged by the students at the chapel exercises. Subscriptions up to $20,000 have now been made altogether voluntarily.

It is announced that telegrams and letters from all parts of the state have been pouring in promising aid and some checks from former students have already been received.

SCHOOL MERGER PROPOSAL URGED

Two influential educational bodies Wednesday night were on record as favoring the general scheme of the proposed consolidation of the Fulton county city school systems.

The Fulton County Parent-Teacher council Wednesday afternoon passed a measure submitted by Mrs. R. L. Hope, chairman of the resolutions committee, pledging support to the consolidation. The College Park board of education Tuesday night endorsed the scheme and ordered E. D. Barrett, president, to appoint a committee to investigate the proposal and cooperate with other boards of education concerning the merger.

Fulton Council Approves Plan.
The Fulton council gave its approval at a meeting held at the Fulton county courthouse Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. J. N. Brawner, president, presided.

An address by J. W. Simmons, who retires as superintendent of Fulton schools January 1, 1925, was a feature of the meeting. He was presented a chest of silver for his services to the county for an eight years. Mrs. Brawner, in the name of the Fulton system, made the presentation.

Resolutions endorsing the work of Miss Mattie Mitchell, supervisor of Fulton schools, and regretting her illness, which confined her at an Atlanta hospital, were passed unanimously. Her work was commended and the council recommended that her services be retained.

Reports of the executive committee were read by Mrs. R. N. Williams, chairman, and reports of the Fifth District council meeting, held December 21 at the Atlanta Woman's club, were made.

The Fulton council voted to invite Parent-Teacher organizations of East Point and College Park to send representatives to the Fulton council. Mrs. R. Z. Gardner reported for the scholarship and endowments committee.

Text of Resolutions.
The text of the resolutions passed by the Fulton society follows:

Whereas, it is generally conceded that the four distinct school systems now in operation in Fulton county, with their four separate administrative organizations, combined under one force, operated from a central office, with greater efficiency in administration and supervision and at a saving in operating expenses; and

Whereas, the same text books and the same courses of study should prevail throughout the county with uniform standards in education and uniform requirements for teachers; and

Whereas, the unit system for the operation of schools has been adopted and found satisfactory in Bibb, Chatham, Richmond, Glynn and Muscogee counties; therefore be it

Resolved, that the Fulton County Council of Parent-Teachers association endorse the movement to merge the school systems in Fulton county and the council hereby pledges its active support and cooperation in bringing about such a consolidation; and be it further resolved that a copy of this endorsement be sent to Fulton county commissioners, the Fulton county board of education and the Fulton county representative.

Edward Richardson, S. Rollo Young, and W. F. Ison, who compose the committee from the College Park board of education, have already started an exhaustive study of the merging of Atlanta, Fulton county, East Point, and College Park systems, and plan to hold public hearings on the matter following the joint conference of boards of education and school officials of all interested systems, called at the invitation of the Atlanta board.

Action of the College Park board was taken after a discussion which followed reading of resolutions adopted by the College Park League of Women Voters and the Atlanta Federation of Trades, both of which expressed approval of the proposed consolidation.

Both organizations mentioned have promised cooperation in merging the four systems and operating the metropolitan district, and their resolutions seemingly represent the general attitude regarding the proposal.

Cash and notes, totaling $9,700, were stolen Wednesday night from a safe in the grocery store of H. F. Harrison in East Point. The box taken by the thief contained $200 in money and six promissory notes. Two of them were for $1,750 each and the other four aggregated $5,000. An unidentified negro is suspected.

Harrison told police the robbery occurred while he was in a storage room on the second floor of the store. He said that just before he went upstairs a negro man came in and asked for change for a dollar. The vault door of the safe was open but the strong box was locked.

OCHS GIVES $500,000 FOR NEW DICTIONARY

Washington, December 10.—It was announced here today that the New York Times, "as a gift to the nation," has agreed to advance $500,000 for the preparation of a dictionary of American biography under the auspices and direction of the American Council of Learned Societies. The work, it was stated, will stand upon a unique level of authority, scholarship and literary quality, comparing with the British "Dictionary of National Biography" and the German "Allgemeine Deutsche Biographie." The Times will not be either maker or publisher of the dictionary and will assume no control over it, the function of The Times being simply that of making possible, through the action of its publisher, Adolph S. Ochs, such a book of reference.

BOYS TO FIGHT TIGERS Will Aid Officers in War on Wet Christmas.

Atlanta school boys have declared war on a wet Christmas. These scholars will form a battery of vigilants to see to it that those who plan a gay holiday period do not mix it with drinks.

These youthful vigilants will not have the power to arrest anyone they find defying Mr. Volstead, but they have been instructed to report violations of prohibition to the proper authorities, who, in turn, plan to take action against offenders.

This new idea started Wednesday when Professor Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools, in an address to students of both Boys' and Tech High schools, urged cooperation of all boy students in making Christmas "safe for prohibition." Professor Sutton plans to make similar talks in other schools from now until after the holidays.

FEDERATION SEEKING TO IMPEACH ABBOTT

Under the present law, and a possible $20,000 which might accrue in fees of the office.

Vigorous condemnation of the action of Tax Receiver Abbott was voiced by Carl Karson, who declared that the federation should not hesitate to take action against this attempt to defeat the salary system. He said that he sought to find out why the federation should make excuses for a politician because he lied to the people.

Robert E. Gann, who has just returned from El Paso, where he attended the annual meeting of the American Federation of Labor, also scored the action of the tax receiver in seeking to void the salary law.

Former Councilman Claud Ashby, delegate from the engineers, spoke against the motion, saying that while he was for the fee system, and against any attempt to break it down, he felt it to be eminently improper for the federation to go on record regarding any question still at issue in the courts.

Attacks Salary System.
Eummett L. Quinn, delegate from the machinists' union, and a deputy in Sheriff's court, also opposed the motion on the grounds that the federation had no right to attack the receiver for testing this law. Mr. Quinn said that he had always doubted the wisdom of adopting the salary system. He challenged every delegate present as to whether they were familiar with the salary law, and it was adopted by the voters of Fulton county.

Mr. Quinn said that there is a possibility of building up one of the greatest political machines the country has ever seen by reason of the power vested in the salary law. He declared, could create offices in the various county departments for the payment of political debts.

George F. Layman, of the blacksmiths union, spoke in vigorous terms for expression of the central labor body against the action taken by the tax receiver, saying that the people had become indifferent when elections were held and would not vote because of the fact that so many times their wills, as expressed at the polls had been defeated by shrewd politicians and lawyers.

"They have learned to say 'What's the use in voting' said Mr. Haynie, 'because they know that someone is ready to take every law that aids the people to the higher courts in the hope of finding a technicality that will kill it.'

Speaks Against Motion.
J. A. Miller spoke against the motion, declaring that Abbott was only taking advantage of his constitutional right to test a law as any citizen might do. He said that while he was against the fee system, and while he did not approve of the action taken in this instance by the county official, he felt that it would not be just for him to be condemned for testing the law. Mr. Miller was asked the question as to whether or not there is possible ground for impeachment of Tax Receiver Abbott, and he replied that he believed there could not be found one single ground upon which to bring such action against him.

Miss Mary Barker, of the school teachers' union, appealed to the delegates not to adopt the motion, saying that it would be a silly action in view of the fact that it would be urging the executive committee to do an impossible thing. "We have been told there are no grounds for impeachment," said she, "and it would be silly for us to attempt to impeach the tax receiver."

Speaks on School Merger.
Previous to her address upon the motion regarding the tax receiver, Miss Barker spoke upon the question of merging the city and county school systems during which she gave serious warning that great caution should be exercised by those who are seeking to bring about this amalgamation.

"We ought to be very careful," she said.

BROTHER OF FOOTBALL STAR COMMITS SUICIDE

Memphis, Tenn., December 10.—Jack Wakefield, one of the most brilliant preparatory school football players in the south and former member of the St. Louis National league baseball team, shot and killed himself here tonight.

Wakefield left the home of his fiancée, with whom he had quarreled, and went directly to the home of a friend, saying as he entered the door, "Look out I'm going to shoot," and pulling a revolver from his pocket, fired a bullet in his brain. He died while being taken to a hospital.

Wakefield, fullback on the Vanderbilt university football team, is Jack Wakefield's brother. This famous member of the family is rated the best football player in the south. He was chosen unanimously by critics for the All-Southern football team.

Jack Wakefield's ability as a baseball player was equal to his prowess in the gridiron. During preliminary work with the St. Louis National league baseball team in training camp early this year, he broke his leg.

He said, "that sufficient funds are provided with which to combine the two systems under proper auspices and upon the proper basis. The schools are growing a great deal faster than anyone outside the system realizes and a larger system would demand more money for more supervisors, more teachers and more officials will be required. I want to warn this body that it will not be an easy matter to combine the two systems upon the proper financial basis, and we will have to watch our friends as well as our enemies to see that nothing wrong is attempted."

George F. Layman, of the blacksmiths union, spoke in vigorous terms for expression of the central labor body against the action taken by the tax receiver, saying that the people had become indifferent when elections were held and would not vote because of the fact that so many times their wills, as expressed at the polls had been defeated by shrewd politicians and lawyers.

SLAYER OF WIFE IS FOUND GUILTY

Not given except that he acted "funny."

Hugh Burgess, leading defense attorney, introduced papers establishing the insanity of E. S. Bird, brother of the defendant, and Mr. Hughes

Robinson, sister of Rufus Bird, testified that both her mother and grandmother showed signs of mental weakness. On cross-examination she admitted that this was noticed in their declining years.

Packed Courtroom.
The courtroom was packed when Mrs. Morris related to the jury details of the killing. Bird slumped down in his chair and stared blankly, apparently oblivious of the fight being waged for his own life. His year in prison has not aged him apparently, and he gave practically the same impression as he did at his first trial.

Stabbed by Pick.
"He entered the house apparently in good humor, and I proceeded to prepare breakfast for him. He talked in generalities and told mother that he would not harm a hair on her head."

Bird Barred From Stand.
Bird was not allowed to take the stand in his own defense because he is regarded as being incompetent under the law.

When the case opened Wednesday morning, attorneys for the defense attempted to put on record an affidavit made by Webster Bird, son of the defendant, in regard to alleged new evidence of insanity of his father. This was ruled out by Judge Hutcherson on objection of Solicitor General Claude Smith. An attachment was issued for Webster Bird, who did not appear in court.

Hugh Burgess and Leon S. Tomlinson represented Bird and Frank Grizzard assisted Solicitor General Smith in the prosecution.

Wanderlust Seizing Children

MANY LEAVING HOME, SAY TRUANT OFFICERS

As School Tasks Grow Tedious

An alarming number of cases in which Atlanta school children have run away from home during the present year was revealed Wednesday following the disappearance of Roy Bailey, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Bailey, of 42 Martin street.

Never have so many school children in the city left their homes as this year, according to the truants department, said Wednesday. The Bailey boy is the seventh reported to have run away, and another group of five boys was apprehended as they were boarding a freight train, Florida bound.

Young Boy Disappears.
Following the path beaten by his school mates, Roy has disappeared completely as if swallowed up by the earth. In the opinion of school authorities, he simply decided to leave home and school behind, and to set about making his own way in the world without assistance of guidance of parents or teacher.

Following reports of his disappearance from school, and his failure to return home, M. E. Coleman, director of census and attendance for Atlanta schools, asked assistance of police in the search for the youngster, and officials of surrounding cities also have been notified to be on the watch for him.

Boy on Probation.
The child, who is in the seventh grade at the Hoke Smith Junior High school, had refused to attend school for some time, it is said, and had been on probation until recently. While on probation, he was forced to report regularly to Mr. Coleman's office, the action being taken only after his parents had been unable to induce him to attend his classes.

Roy left his home, ostensibly on his way to school, early Tuesday morning, but failed to arrive there. When he did not return home at night, when no trace of him could be found, the frantic parents notified school authorities, but the search, which continued throughout Wednesday, has been unavailing.

When last seen the youngster wore blue serge trousers, blue sweater, brown mackinaw coat, white shirt and brown cap. He is described as having brown eyes, dark hair and of heavy build.

Pathetic Stories Told.
Pathetic stories are told by attendance officers in connection with other cases. A majority of disappearances result from the children's dissatisfaction with home life, it is said.

One case was cited in which a little brother and sister, fearing that they would be whipped if they returned home at night, slept in the school.

house for several nights before attention of school authorities was brought to their disappearance.

Another boy, less than ten years old, refused to return to his home after school, fearing that he would be punished, and elected instead to sleep in the garage behind his home. He continued to attend school, but steadfastly refused to go home.

Decide to Leave Home.
One case was reported in which two small girls, who said that their parents failed to give them proper attention, left home and stayed with neighbors for several days before being located by their parents. As in the boy's case, the girls continued to attend school.

Still other children have decided to leave both home and school, and have started out into the world "on their own." Some have been found cold, hungry and afraid, and returned to their homes, while whereabouts of others remain a mystery.

The five boys caught as they were boarding the train gave as their reason that they lived near the railroad tracks, and that seeing the trains pass constantly roused the desire for travel and adventure in their blood. According to their stories, they were bound for Florida, where they intended to continue their living by picking and packing oranges.

WINNER IN LIGHTING CONTEST SELECTED

J. T. ROSE HEADS NEW CORPORATION

Following a meeting Wednesday morning of about 100 of the company's 608 stockholders, machinery was set in motion and work begun in the plant of the newly-organized Atlanta Industrial corporation, which will manufacture boll weevil dusting machines, hoses and other farm implements, and do general machine shop work.

The new corporation, whose stockholders are scattered over Georgia, Florida and South Carolina, on November 1 purchased from the federal receiver the plant of the old Oliver Kim company, which went into bankruptcy several years ago. The plant is situated on the tracks of the Central of Georgia and the Atlanta & West Point railroads, just opposite Camp Jesup, and comprises an area of eleven acres. The factory, which is said to be one of the finest and best equipped machine shops in the state, originally cost approximately $250,000, according to officials of the new corporation.

Officers named by the directors at Wednesday's meeting are: President, Josiah T. Rose, collector of internal revenue for Georgia; vice presidents, H. G. Eidson, banker and manufacturer of Johnson, S. C.; John Aldridge, president of the Lester Book & Stationery company, of Atlanta, and G. B. Reeves, prominent planter, of Palmetto, Ga. Woods White, president of the Morris Plan company, was named secretary-treasurer.

The new corporation has been in process of organization for the past two years. When it was first decided to form the company, Mr. Rose, Mr. White and Mr. Eidson were named by the stockholders as a syndicate committee of trustees. Plans for the entire project were formulated by this committee, and all its actions were confirmed at the stockholders' meeting Wednesday, which was held at the plant.

The stockholders voted an operating capital of $3,100,000. There are 3,401 shares of stock in the new corporation. A. J. Yaretsky, who for several years was connected with the Atlanta Foundry and Machine company, will be general manager.

He was raiding officer of the regiment in France, and received the D. S. C., the legion of honor and the croix de guerre for conduct in action.

FIRE DRIVES GIRLS FROM DORMITORIES

Bridgewater, Mass., December 10.—Two hundred and fifty girls were driven from dormitories into the cold, scantily clad when fire destroyed three buildings at the state normal school today. The loss was $500,000.

The fire started in the model school building and spread rapidly. The dormitories were untouched and the pupils were removed safely. The model school, a building devoted to class rooms, and a cottage occupied by teachers were burned.

Chief William F. Daley, of the Brooklyn fire department, which sent apparatus seven miles, was hurt by a falling wall and removed to a hospital.

The school trains teachers for elementary public schools.

Mercury To Drop Below Freezing, Says Forecaster

Atlanta temperatures probably will drop below the freezing point early this morning, gradually rising until the weather will be considerably warmer than that of Wednesday, according to prediction at the local office of the U. S. weather bureau Wednesday afternoon.

The general forecast for today is "fair and warmer." Thermometer readings Wednesday showed an early morning low of 35, with 50 degrees as the maximum during the afternoon. There will be a considerably wider range today, it is expected.

Conditions are not favorable for rain at Atlanta for the next few days at least, it is stated.

ENGLAND WILL PAY DEBTS, SAYS BRITON

O. Warburg, widely-known British exporter, who is in the United States for a short stay, visited Atlanta stores Wednesday and paid a particular tribute to M. Rich & Bros. Co., of which he is British representative.

In discussing British business conditions, Mr. Warburg said: "We have had three changes of government in three years. Now the general feeling is that with a conservative administration in power, conditions will stabilize themselves if parliament will just let things alone and let everybody go to work in real earnest."

Britain Will Pay Debts.
"The war debts will work themselves out naturally and no one is worrying much about the financial side of the situation. Britain will pay her debts; she is paying them now and will continue to liquidate her obligations. It will be accomplished mainly by export of British goods to America and the increasing volume supports this assertion."

The Briton is a member of the firm of Baker, Warburg & Co., Ltd., of London, and does the buying in England for the various departments of Rich's that specialize in the "individual merchandise" on which the store prides itself.

"I was never more surprised than when I found out what Atlanta really means in the way of business progress," said Mr. Warburg. "This is my first visit to the United States, and it was my idea that Atlanta was a comparatively small southern city, easy going and not particularly noteworthy from a business man's point of view."

"My ideas have undergone a decided change. Atlanta is a real city with a wonderful spirit of progress and aggressiveness, and within a few years it will be at least double its present size."

"Rich's store and the Biltmore hotel have given me a profound respect for Atlanta. Any city that can maintain such enterprises is a real metropolitan center."

Import on Increase.
Mr. Warburg said that import of British products by southern business houses is on the increase. He said Rich's store was a leader in this. On the department store idea, Mr. Warburg said: "Workmen in the United States are in much better circumstance than those in England," said Mr. Warburg. "Living costs are two or three times higher in this country, but your workmen draw four or five times as much wages. English craftsmen own few automobiles, but in this country it looks as though everybody rides in motor cars."

BANKER TO ENTER NOT GUILTY PLEA

Des Moines, Iowa, December 10.—Isadore Luchesi, former vice president of the United States bank, who was returned here from Memphis yesterday to face charges of embezzlement, decided today not to plead guilty, but to stand trial.

The amount of the bankers' defalcations was estimated at near the $50,000 mark by County Attorney Seeburger tonight. He said Luchesi had told him of several additional short-

FRANKLIN "MYTH" CHARGE ATTRACTS STRONG DEFENSE

New York, December 10.—"Franklin experts"—officers of the international Benjamin Franklin society—today hastened to the defense of the kite and key story of the colonial American's electrical experiment, which was declared to be a myth by Professor Alexander McAdie, of the Blue Hill observatory, in a Boston address Tuesday.

John Clyde Oswald, president of the organization, and J. Henry Smythe, Jr., historian, declared there was ample proof of the veracity of the famous tale.

As to Professor McAdie's assertion that the shock would have killed Franklin, Mr. Smythe said available records made it plain that Franklin had held a silk handkerchief, a non-conductor, between the metal and his hand, and thus materially reduced the force of the shock.

SPENCE DECLINES PLACE AS JUDGE

Solicitor General A. B. Spence, of the superior court of the Waycross circuit, Wednesday afternoon declined appointment to the judgeship of the circuit, tendered him by Governor Clifford Walker. The place on the bench was made vacant by the recent death of Judge J. I. Sumner.

SPENCE WIVES GOVERNOR WALKER

Waycross, Ga., December 10.—(Special.)—Allen B. Spence, solicitor general of the Waycross circuit, today was appointed by Governor Walker to fill the unexpired term of the late Judge J. I. Sumner.

Spence immediately wired his refusal of the appointment to the governor, stating that he regretted exceedingly that he was unable to accept the appointment.

The appointment of Spence came as a surprise to Waycross citizens, who had been closely following the course of events leading up to the decision of Governor Walker. Colonel Spence has let it be known from the beginning that he would not accept the office, and evidently from his letter of refusal to the governor, he had made Governor Walker aware of his decision, prior to his appointment.

Colonel Spence was served as solicitor of the Waycross circuit under Judge Sumner, and during the entire term of office of the late judge, and has won for himself the reputation of being an efficient and fearless state official. He practiced law for years in Waycross, and has hundreds of friends throughout the district who will be pleased to hear of the high honor offered him by the governor of the state.

His telegram of refusal to Governor Walker was as follows: "I am deeply sensible of the high honor you do me in offering me the appointment as judge of the Waycross circuit, to succeed my distinguished friend, Judge Sumner, and thank you sincerely for this evidence of friendship and confidence. I regret exceedingly that for reasons which I have explained to you, and which my duty to my family and to myself prevent me from ignoring, I am unable to accept the appointment."

These mills and various improvements are contemplated to put these properties in condition in line with the other large Cannon mill interests throughout the southeast. Mr. Cannon is at the head of some of the mills of the Cannon corporation, and

W. J. Cannon, his brother, is a business man of Concord, N. C.

F. S. Etheridge, of Atlanta, is associated with the Cannons in their plant at Social Circle, Ga.

W. S. Lee is president of the Southern Power company, with the largest power company in this part of the world, being owned and controlled by J. B. Duke.

Norman Cooke is a prominent lawyer of Charlotte, representing the Duke interests.

S. B. Alexander, Jr., is a director in the Crompton and Knowles Loom works, of Worcester, Mass., and is their southern representative.

B. B. Gossett is president of the Chadwick-Hoskins group of mills, representing about 200,000 spindles in the Carolinas.

L. W. Robert, Jr., better known throughout the south as "Clip" Robert, of Atlanta, is one of the best-known industrial architects and engineers in the country, and he is now giving his attention to the required physical reorganization of these mills.

The acquisition of these properties increases the number of spindles controlled and operated by the Cannon mill interests to over 770,000 spindles. The farthest of the mills, of cotton mills in the south. The mills just purchased are now in full operation.

Have Chance to Live.

Davenport and Massingill sustained severe injuries about the head and body and are believed to be hurt internally. Surgeons said these two men have about an even chance for life.

The wrecked plane was hauled ashore by an army tractor that had been sent to the scene for the purpose. In the cockpit of the plane were found the bodies of Lieutenants Varini and Thurston and Machine Gunner Mate Cruell. The bodies of Lieutenant Roby and Radioman Wiecek were washed to sea.

Although aviation officials at North Island believe that the exact cause of the tragedy probably will never be known, a fairly accurate idea of what happened was obtained from Lieutenant Joseph H. Gowan, pilot of the seaplane towing the target for the ship in which the five men lost their lives, and from observers at Rockwell field.

Tried Right Vertical Turn.

The H-16 plane was flying at a speed of about 85 miles an hour when Lieutenant Varini attempted a right vertical turn. The ship at that instant was about 1,200 feet above the ocean and about half a mile south west of Point Loma.

Either the controls jammed or one or more of the wires running to the rudder and ailerons snapped. The plane, weighing more than a ton, went into a spin, plunging with terrific speed toward the sea, finally crashing in the surf.

Splinters from the wrecked plane covered the sea for several hundred feet. It is believed that all five men in the forward cockpits were killed instantly and not drowned, as the recovered bodies were horribly mangled.

Georgia Tobacco Lands Boosted By Carolinian

L. A. Currin, tobacco planter of Hester, N. C., passed through Atlanta Wednesday on his way back to the Tarheel state, after arranging to buy tobacco lands in Colquitt county and to move his family to this state.

After stating that he was convinced, by personal investigation, that the tobacco belt of south Georgia is far better for tobacco culture than the best lands in North Carolina, Mr. Currin said that many successful Carolina tobacco farmers recently have decided to move to Georgia.

"At Moultrie this week," he said, "I met several tobacco men from 'home' who have decided on a change of residence and who next year will be engaged in raising tobacco in Colquitt county."

"Taking into consideration every factor, I think the present time offers a wonderful opportunity to north Georgia farmers to move into south Georgia and there is no doubt, in my mind, that many hundreds will do so."

will be considered. This date was specified due to the fact that Edwin F. Johnson, chairman of the commission, is leaving the city and will be unable to attend a meeting before that time.

Mr. Weldon, in discussing the plans for a public meeting, made it plain that matters likely to be discussed were not being suggested or fostered by the league, but merely developments of the general county situation that have appeared in conversation or communication to the league of coers.

Revised List Made.

The only other apparent development in the situation Wednesday was the release for publication of a revised list of salaries of employees of Solicitor General John A. Boykin's office. The schedule, fixed by the Fulton county commission, did not meet with the approval of the special commission of grand jurors appointed to approve salaries of minor officials of the solicitor's office.

In the revised list, the salaries of Louis P. Marquardt, and Lewis P. Jones, chief clerk and clerk respectively, were reduced from $3,000 to $2,700; the salaries of Elsie Miner and Marvin Baker, investigators, were cut from $2,000 to $2,400, and the contingent fund provided for expenses in Mr. Boykin's office was reduced from $3,000 to $1,000.

Robert L. Foreman, chairman of the special commission, in his letter to Mr. Johnson, which contained the revised list, expressed regret that the commission was unable to approve the salary schedule fixed by the county commission.

beliefs and the realignment of parties according to basic principles.

"Certainly enough power and authority and bureaucracy is centralized at Washington to make it a rallying point for those who believe in decentralization and the autonomy of the states," he said.

Opportunity for Issue.

"Will not the American people, at the close of these four years, welcome from the democratic party a program for decentralization?" he asked.

He said the party's traditional conviction that the government governs best when it is least. Here is the opportunity for an issue.

"The most cherished feature of our constitution is the immunity it guarantees the individual from governmental interference. Millions of people think that this immunity is not only being invaded, but that it is being destroyed."

"They think it when congress, in enforcing the Eighteenth amendment, declares that to be a fact which everyone knows is not a fact; when the states are permitted to punish a person for an act for which the federal government already has punished him."

Invaded by Suffragettes.

"They think it is being invaded by subterfuges which substitute contempt proceedings for a jury trial; they think it is being invaded by the world war, when congress made it a crime even to say anything calculated to bring our form of government into scorn or disrepute."

Individual rights could be another issue for the 1928 campaign, said Governor Ritchie, "for we must admit that never before has 'our' restricted freedom of the individual as now."

"Were there another Hamilton in the land today, viewing our country's vast expansion and our relation to international affairs, his brain would conceive greater need than he had ever dreamed of for a strong and cohesive central government, regulating and controlling firmly the acts of its citizenship."

"Were there another Jefferson," concluded Governor Ritchie, "the demand as passionately as the Jefferson of 1775, would be the right of the states to settle their local concerns be preserved or restored to them and the freedom of the individual be saved from governmental interference."

At another point he said:

Cites Specific Case.

"Thompson said he did not want the Tupper Lake hospital foundation so I went to Forbes and said, 'Maybe I can get a little money out of McCauley for the Tupper Lake foundation.' Sutherland got the job, one for $42,000 and another one for $52,000 and Sutherland paid me and I paid Forbes."

Mortimer told during the day of his having examined the registers of a number of eastern hotels in search of evidence that Forbes and Mrs. Mortimer had lived together at various times during 1922. He named several hotels, with the dates his search had revealed.

Some time later Mortimer fixed the time of a certain incident in his relations with Forbes in proximity to an occasion on which he had "caught him (Forbes) in Fairmount park in Philadelphia with Mrs. Mortimer."

Mortimer's cross examination still was incomplete when court adjourned.

cussions of a funding scheme. Great Britain, he said, had not made any representations to either France or the United States relative to debts, but if it became necessary to do so, the representations would be in a friendly spirit.

WASHINGTON UNEASY OVER BRITISH ATTITUDE.

Washington, December 10.—Uneasiness was aroused in some official circles here by the statement attributed today to Winston Churchill, chancellor of the British exchequer, that his government would insist on proportionate payments to it on occasion of a common creditor making payments to the United States.

The treasury was silent on the remark, but it gave evidence of surprise in the time in events because of a likelihood that such a declaration might cause delay in the prospective settlement with France.

Meetings between Secretary Mellon and Ambassador Jusserand with respect to the French debt have been wholly informal thus far, and nothing approaching definite terms has been discussed, but even in that stage, it was indicated, an expression from the British of such a character could Ross Flays Sheriff.

Attorney Ross charges that the sheriff then unlawfully removed Dr. Edwards to the Birmingham jail, out of Judge Gwin's jurisdiction. Officials point out that a sheriff must obtain an order from the presiding judge in order to remove a prisoner from one county to another.

Both Bessemer and Birmingham are in Jefferson county and the particular point raised in the Edwards case has never been settled heretofore, it was stated.

The hearing before Judge Gwin today was behind barred doors. Dr. Edwards was not called before the judge but remained in the office of Chief Deputy J. T. Reeler, of Besmer. Hundreds of spectators were present in the courtroom but left when they found no public hearing would be held.

Charges Drugs Given.

At the office of Solicitor Ben Perry, at Bessemer, it was said today that Dr. Edwards was moved from the Bessemer jail to the main prison Monday because of a belief by authorities that "drugs were being given him" and to relieve the state of responsibility in case the prisoner "took an overdose." At the time of the transfer Sheriff Sturley said Dr. Edwards was removed for "safe-keeping."

Dr. Edwards was arrested a few hours after his wife was found with a crushed skull. In the room were found open bottles of an anesthetic which are thought to have been administered here. The physician said his wife was slain by an intruder into the home and that he himself was shot through the hand when he grappled with the criminal. The wound in his hand is rapidly healing, officials say.

Debt Conference Seen.

Another phase of the situation which was suggested here was the possibility that the Churchill remarks might later be employed as the foundation for an inter-allied debt conference. The United States steadfastly has refused to participate in meetings of this sort in the past, but some officials looked upon the British chancellor's statement as meaning that another attempt would be made to induce this government to join in discussions of the whole debt subject.

COMMISSION FINDS SLAYER IS INSANE

Tallahassee, Fla., December 10.—Benjamin C. Chaires, indicted by the grand jury here last week for killing E. B. Manning, today was declared insane by a commission appointed by Judge E. C. Love, of circuit court, and ordered to the Chattahoochee Insane asylum. The killing took place near this city last June.

Cause of the insanity was not determined by the commission. It was developed, however, that several of Chaires' kinsmen had died in insane hospitals, some at Chattahoochee and others at Columbia, S. C.

At the office of Solicitor Ben Perry, at Bessemer, it was said today that Dr. Edwards was moved from the Bessemer jail to the main prison Monday because of a belief by authorities that "drugs were being given him" and to relieve the state of responsibility in case the prisoner "took an overdose." British Note Questions America's Right to Cash Payments From Germany

Hughes Expected To Insist That the Claims of United States Be Given Equal Treatment.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, December 10.—This government is preparing to return a firm answer to the communication from the Baldwin government, which questions the right of the United States to collect claims out of German reparations payments made under the Dawes plan.

In substance, Great Britain has informed this government that, in her opinion, the proceeds extracted from Germany through the Dawes plan should be distributed among the allied powers on reparations account and that the United States, not having any official participation in collection of reparations, should not expect to participate in the proceeds obtained thereunder.

Specifically, Great Britain contends that some of the claims of the United States against Germany are Lusatia and other pre-war claims, and that these should not be paid out of money collected, as Britain understands, for payment of war reparations. She contends that the United States should settle these claims by sequestering German property in the United States, as was done by Great Britain. She also objects that the United States, not being a participant in the Versailles treaty, has no right to collections intended for reparations.

Although this government never asked any reparations from Germany, she has specifically reserved all rights allowed under the treaty of Versailles. This issue was threshed out in the controversy over distribution of payments for the expenses of the allied and American armies of occupation and the contention of the United States for an equal claim in the distribution of collections was sustained.

May Be Only Maneuver. There is some opposition in official circles that the British government may be indulging in a maneuver to satisfy public sentiment, which has been fanned up over the debt situation. The cabinet already has decided to make this play to offset that criticism. However, American officials venture no observations in this connection.

If the British contention were to be accepted, American officials believe, every cent that Germany can pay would be distributed among them, and the United States would have to wait indefinitely for the money due it. There was some surprise in official circles that Great Britain should raise this question after a similar principle had been adjusted in the controversy over payment of the Rhine army costs. However, American officials anticipate that, after a few exchanges, the difference will be adjusted satisfactorily, as have other post-war disputes.

AUGUST BELMONT DIES IN NEW YORK

Mr. Belmont rallied for a brief period, but at 4 o'clock this afternoon he became unconscious, dying two and a half hours later.

Although funeral arrangements had not been made tonight, C. J. Fitzgerald, of the Jockey club, and representative of the Belmont family, announced that the body would be taken to Newport, R. I., and buried there after services at St. George's Episcopal church.

Mr. Belmont was born in New York, February 18, 1853. He entered Harvard university in 1870 after preparing at the Rectory school, Hampden, Conn., and Phi Beta Kappa assembly. In 1875, he entered the banking firm of his father, of which he was to the control in 1890, at the death of his father, and has throughout his life been prominent in banking circles. At the time of his death, he was head of the firm of August Belmont and company.

Mr. Belmont was chairman of the board of directors of the Interborough Rapid Transit company, which he organized. He was chairman of the board of the Louisville & Nashville railroad, a director of the Equitable Life Insurance company, the National Trust bank and various other corporations.

Mr. Belmont was married twice and was the father of three children. His first wife, whom he married in 1881, was Bessie H. Morgan. She died in 1898. In 1910, Mr. Belmont married Eleanor Robson, a famous actress. His children by his first wife, were August, Jr., Raymond and Morgan. August, Jr., died in 1919.

Father Born in Prussia.

Mr. Belmont was the son of August and Caroline Slidell (Perry) Belmont. His father was born at Alzei, in the Palatinate, Rhenish Prussia, but came to New York at the age of 21 and became a citizen of the United States at the first opportunity. The elder Belmont became an internationally known figure in financial and diplomatic circles.

Mr. Belmont for many years had been one of the most prominent figures identified with American thoroughbred racing. Owner of a formidable racing stable himself, he wielded a powerful influence in the metropolitan turf for many years as chairman of the Jockey club, Belmont Park, the "American New Market," situated on Long Island, and is regarded as the most beautiful racing plant in the United States, takes its name from his family, as does the famous Belmont stakes, the oldest stake event in America, now an annual fixture at Belmont Park.

Mr. Belmont also had an international reputation as one of the foremost breeders of thoroughbreds. Sold Stallion for $264,000. Mr. Belmont, who had an international reputation as one of the foremost breeders of thoroughbreds, also figures in turf history for his sale of Tracery, a famous stallion, to S. J. Luzzo, Buenos Aires sportsman, for $264,000, a price which still stands as a world's record for a horse.

Mr. Belmont was instrumental in reviving international rivalry in 1923 when Papyrus, English derby winner, was beaten by Zev, American champion, in a match race for $100,000 at Belmont Park, one of the most colorful events in turf history. He also brought about the invasion of Pierre Wertheimer's French colt, Epineur, last season and had outlined plans to establish such events as annual affairs to bring about closer and more friendly relations with turfmen of foreign countries.

Mr. Belmont was the eldest son of August Belmont, for many years president of the Jockey club, and took a keen interest in the turf from his earliest days. Before he had graduated from Harvard, he was known as a fine rider. He was one of the founders of the Meadowbrook club famous as a turf and polo center.

Conducts Nursery Stud. On the death of his father, Mr. Belmont carried on the blooded stock breeding the former had started and in the early nineties conducted the Nursery Stud near Lexington, Ky. It was there that he bred Tracery, which later carried the Belmont silks abroad. Papyrus, incidentally, was among the noted offspring of Tracery.

During the past season, Mr. Belmont had two three-year-olds in training, Ordinance and Ladkin, and his greatest triumph was scored when Ladkin defeated Epineur at Aqueduct. This victory was regarded by Mr. Belmont as one of the greatest triumphs of his career. The yearlings in his 1924 stable were among the best that ever came from his stud and he was anticipating eagerly his part in the 1925 season.

Mr. Belmont, through his breeding activities, aided both the American and cavalry services during the war by consigning to their use some of the best of his blooded stock.

Raced in England. For ten years before the start of the World war in 1914, the Belmont colors flashed in front in the leading races on the British turf. Mr. Belmont purchased a large tract of land near Dieppe, France, on which to erect homes for his string of thoroughbreds. In 1918, he was the highest winner in England.

The Ferment captured the Manchester handicap in 1905 and Norman III won the 3,000-guinea stakes at the same track in 1908. A year later, Fond Memories, Boudoir and Amical were first at Yarmouth, New Market and Doncaster. Tracery started a winning career in 1912.

Mr. Belmont's greatest invasion of British territory came in 1910 and for the following three years his horses took feature after feature.

UNDERWOOD'S BILL TARGET OF ATTACK

the proposals, had none of his own, and "consequently stood for nothing."

Against Present Proposals. Senator McKellar replied that he favored none of the present proposals and intended to vote against them all, for he did not believe any of them would safeguard the interests of the country. He read the offers of the Alabama Power company and associated power companies, and declared "it would be infinitely better to accept the bid of the Alabama Power company" than pass the Underwood bill.

The Tennessee senator charged that the Alabama Power company could lease Muscle Shoals under the Underwood bill on better terms than the power company itself has offered. He declared he did not believe "from past performances of the Alabama Power company" that they would reduce either the price of power or of fertilizer if they got the property.

Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, accused Senator McKellar of not studying the Underwood bill and disagreed with his statement that the power companies had offered a better proposal than the Underwood bill. He declared their bid allowed 4 per cent on the cost of production and sale of fertilizer, and on 3.1 per cent on the cost of the Muscle Shoals property.

Harrison Defends Underwood. The Underwood bill, the Mississippi senator declared, restricted the profits on fertilizer to 4 per cent of the cost of production only and required a rental of 4 per cent on the cost of the property. He asserted Senator McKellar would be doing "discovery" to the farmers and taxpayers of the country by favoring more profits on fertilizers and depriving the government of at least one-half per cent in rental.

Senator Norris said the senate must decide if it wishes to require the production of fertilizer of a certain amount, regardless of whether it can be produced at a profit or loss. Senator Underwood said his bill provided for the production of a certain amount of fixed nitrogen annually, either at a loss or profit for the purpose of national defense. He declared that since it would be more profitable to convert it into fertilizer than to throw it away, it would be natural to assume it would be turned into fertilizer. If a lessee took over the property, Senator Underwood said, he naturally would expect to be able to produce fertilizer at a profit under the terms of the bill and he would be held to the contract.

The senate voted down without a record vote the McKellar amendment, which would have given authority to the secretary of war to fix rates on power produced at Muscle Shoals. An amendment, introduced by Senator Underwood at the suggestion of the chief of army engineers, authorizing the secretary of war to complete the "necessary approaches to locks in dam No. 2," was unanimously accepted.

Senator Underwood asked unanimous consent to insert an amendment to his bill providing that future funds for the maintenance of Muscle Shoals would be included in national defense appropriations, subject to the approval of the military affairs committee. He withdrew the proposal, declaring "it came from the government" and met with his approval.

At the opening of today's session it was agreed unanimously to hold the Muscle Shoals question before the senate until it is disposed of. Leaders expected to obtain a final vote before the end of the week.

Georgia Second In Illicit Still 'Honors' in 1924

Georgia, after leading all other states last year in the number of stills destroyed, relinquished her honors to Tennessee for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1924, but was close behind in second place, according to the annual report of the commissioner of internal revenue, a copy of which was received Wednesday by Fred D. Dismuke, federal prohibition director for Georgia.

The report shows that Tennessee was first with 2,445 stills destroyed, while Georgia was second with 2,209 destroyed. Last year Georgia led the country with a figure of 2,046 stills. However, Georgia did not relinquish claim to all honors in the whiskey destruction line. The report indicates that this state led in the number of gallons of beer destroyed with a record of 1,794,139 gallons, North Carolina taking second place with 1,098,880 gallons destroyed.

led in the amount of property appraised and destroyed by prohibition forces, the total being $437,650.40. North Carolina was second with $421,000.

Third in Carriers. Georgia ranked third in the number of automobiles seized with 179, being headed only by New Jersey with 250 and Michigan with 189. In the number of arrests Georgia was eighth with 1,500. California with 3,189 and Texas with 2,322 led in the number of arrests.

In commenting on the figures, Director Dismuke stated that Georgia's record this year was remarkable. He pointed out that his department operated during the fiscal year just passed with five less men than during the previous fiscal year when this state held first place.

"We are not discouraged," Director Dismuke said. "We have done our best toward enforcing the prohibition law. Everything considered, we are more than pleased with the outcome of the year's work."

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs, loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or chronic asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract known the world over for its healing effect on membranes. Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. A SAFE FORTRESS.—As the mountains are round about Jerusalem, so the people of Georgia are people from henceforth even for ever.

—Psalm 125:2.

A GOOD SHOWING.

When the final ginning figures for the state of Georgia are in the total production of cotton will show approximately one million bales.

In view of the advent of the boll weevil this is an excellent yield for the state and a great advance over the previous year when the ginnings did not come to 700,000.

But this is not the most important thing that has happened on the farms of Georgia this year.

The million bales of cotton will bring a neat sum into the pockets of the farmers, and there will be generally better times and a more encouraging outlook. But on top of all this the government figures, which show that Georgia raised 150 pounds of cotton to the acre as compared to 82 pounds the previous year, almost double the production per acre.

Intensified farming has won a great victory. This newspaper has for years consistently urged the plan of intensified farming, and now the farmers are taking hold. In the first real tryout of the method success has crowned their efforts.

The acreage planted this year was 3,248,000 and the average harvested was 3,183,000, which shows an abandonment of only two per cent. If more acreage had been planted and the method of intensified farming ignored, the percentage of abandonment would not doubt have been much greater and instead of profits from the yield the farmer

of Georgia would have had to show figures on the wrong side of the ledger.

Successful cotton growing this year was not centered in one part of the state, as was the case in 1923, when the northern part of the state made a fair crop and the southern section's efforts were a failure. The crop this year was evenly distributed, with all parts of the state showing a good crop.

The farmer has had to fight against great odds. There was a shortage of picking labor and the cotton plants were damaged by the wet spell and later by the extreme long drought period. The fight against the weevil was well conducted, and although there was some weevil damage, it was demonstrated that, when properly attacked the pest can be controlled.

That is the main thing.

Intensified farming has proven its worth and the results of this year should be an incentive for even harder work along this line next year. And with this there is one more thing to be urged. Plow under the old stalks or burn them.

Georgia can raise a much bigger crop. Let next year's crop total show a million and a half bales for Georgia!

WHAT WOMEN READ.

In the good old days of God's Lady Book women were supposed to be interested in and read about only a few subjects. In their youthful days they were expected to be enthralled by love stories—stories in which the heroines were always tall, vinelike and shrinking—heroines who kept themselves, or who were kept by those responsible for them, more or less in the background until the dashing young hero appeared upon the scene, fell upon his knees regardless of how soggy

the ground might be, got up, led the damsel to Hymen's altar, and both lived happily ever after.

After female readers of the olden times passed the age in which stories of this type failed to interest them

they were supposed to give their thoughts to matters of fashion—long trousers for the little boys and stiff hoods for the little girls. The female reader was also supposed to be interested in religious and church matters and long sermons on obscure theological problems were printed for her benefits.

Great changes have taken place

since the days when God's Lady

Book was in flower. Women have invaded new fields of activity and the feminine mind has expanded into new realms of thought. Women now read about practically everything in which men are interested. They not only read the news of current happenings, but they are interested in politics, public improvements, social and economical tendencies.

While the interest of women has expanded into masculine fields, it has lost nothing in matters considered essentially feminine. Activities of women's organizations have grown enormously in the recent past and matters of education, public welfare and social improvement are receiving increasing attention.

The great increase in the field of female activities and her invasion of business and professional life are rapidly making the modern woman

the world's greatest newspaper and periodical reader.

STUDENTS KIDNAPED BY CHINESE RETURN

Canton, China, December 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—Twenty-two of the students captured Saturday by bandits while en route from Canton to the Christian college in a launch were returned to the college today. The bandits have been routed by General Li Fuh Lin's troops after a short fight. The rescuers found two others of the students this morning, eight still remain in captivity.

The original Canton dispatch Sunday dealing with the capture said 48 teachers and students of the Christian college had been seized by the bandits. A Canton message yesterday announced that three of the students had been returned to the college on parole, bringing a demand for the ransom of the others still held prisoner, but that payment of any ransom had been advised against by the military who were running down the kidnapers.

Macon, Ga., December 10.—(Special.)—Josh Jones, negro, who stabbed his brother, Julius, to death last August in a quarrel over a chicken, was today found guilty of manslaughter by a jury in superior court here. The jury recommended a sentence of 20 years.

HOW TO HAVE A CLEAR HEAD

At Last, Here is What You Have So Long Been Seeking

Do you get up in the morning with a stopped-up nose? Are your breathing passages clogged with a cold? Does your head feel choked up and dull? Have you that mean, low-spirited feeling which comes from lack of proper oxygen? If so, here is a pleasant, harmless cigarette that will clear out the head, nose and throat.

These cigarettes are the formula of Dr. J. W. Blosser and are composed of medicinal herbs, flowers and berries. Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes contain no tobacco, no cubebs, nothing habit forming, and are entirely harmless. They are used by women and children as well as men. These are not to be confused with the "cubebs" or other similar cigarettes.

It is so simple to inhale this pleasant and soothing smoke. Much more convenient than using sprays, washes, douches, etc.

If you suffer from catarrh, asthma, catarrhal deafness or are subject to frequent colds, get from any drug store a convenient pocket size package of Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes and prove for yourself their pleasant, beneficial effect.

The small size package, containing 20 cigarettes, is sold by all druggists at 25 cents.—(adv.)

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease. If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble.

Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store.

However, if you wish first to test this great prescription send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—(adv.)

Eight Prominent Atlantans Elected Chamber Directors 1,504 Votes Are Cast by Members of Big Organization

Election of eight directors of the chamber of commerce who will serve for the ensuing year was announced Wednesday night by managers of the annual election; 1,504 votes were cast.

The new directors are: Philip H. Alston, Frank L. Butler, E. A. Bancker, Jr., Francis E. Kamper, Fonville McWhorter, Charles M. Marshall, Alfred C. Newell and E. Marvin Underwood. The directors were elected in the order named.

Ballots are sent to the entire membership of the organization each year. A first ballot is mailed out with the request that members name their choice for directors and the 16 men receiving the highest votes are designated nominees. A second ballot then is mailed, eight out of the 16 nominees being elected.

The new directors will succeed the following officials whose terms expire January 1: A. S. Adams, J. P. Allen, E. A. Bancker, Jr., F. E. Kamper, Charles M. Marshall, Alfred C. Newell, W. R. C. Smith, E. Marvin Underwood and Thomas W. Connolly, who was elected a special director for 1924.

The following remain directors for 1925, their terms not expiring until 1925: J. R. Bachman, Milton W. Bell, Julian V. Boehm, William Candler, J. M. B. Hogg, Mrs. S. M. Inman, J. S. Kennedy and Paul H. Norcross.

The vote received from the membership this year was the heaviest polled, according to Secretary B. S. Barker.

YOUNG INDICTED BY ILLINOIS JURY ON FIVE COUNTS

East St. Louis, Ill., December 10.—S. Glenn Young was indicted by the October federal grand jury here on five counts for impersonating a government officer in Williamson county, liquor raids, it became known today.

The indictments had been suppressed pending arrest of Young, which was effected at Herrin, Saturday. He furnished bond of $10,000.

Harold Steyer and John Frothingham, both of Galesburg, Ill., said to have been bodyguards of Young, also were indicted on the same charge. They already were in custody under indictment for the robbery of a bank at Brownfield, Ill.

Ibanez Propaganda Dropped by Plane On Spanish Towns

Paris, December 10.—Airplanes carrying full cargoes of Vincente Ibanez's manifesto against King Alfonso of Spain, published last month, flew over San Sebastian, Burgos, Pamplona, Vera, and Barcelona recently and succeeded in dropping several thousand copies over these cities, according to the Spanish writer's headquarters in Paris today.

MOTLOW IS ACQUITTED UPON MURDER CHARGE

St. Louis, December 10.—Lem Motlow, wealthy Tennessee distiller, on trial for the slaying of Clarence T. Pullis, Pullman conductor, following an altercation with Ed Wallis, negro porter, was found not guilty in circuit court tonight.

The verdict was returned at 8:02 p. m., immediately following the convening of court after a recess taken at 5:40 this afternoon, at which time the jury retired for deliberation.

The supreme penalty had been demanded by Circuit Court Attorney Sidener, who concluded the argument for the state. He had branded Motlow as a slayer and asked that his life be given the state in punishment for his alleged crime.

With the final speeches of the defense attorneys from the south, oratory, flavored with the sentiment of Dixie, flowed unrestrained. Two witnesses stressed the race issue.

Former Judge W. B. Lamb, of Fayetteville, Tenn., told the jury that the trouble resulting in the death of Pullis was due to resentment on the part of Ed Wallis, negro porter, at being called "nigger" by Motlow.

Attorney Walker stated that the whole truth of the matter was that Wallis mistook Motlow for "po' white trash" and wanted to keep him off of the train.

Applause greeted the announcement that freed the Tennessee distiller and Judge Hamilton had not thanked and dismissed the jury before Motlow had shook hands with all the jurors.

BEQUEATHS $1,500,000 BY EIGHT-WORD WILL

Pittsburgh, December 10.—A will filed today contained eight words, the shortest ever recorded here, and disposed of an estate valued at $1,500,000. The will, that of the late John Andrew Beck, financier, a board member of a score of banks and oil and gas companies, read: "All my belongings I leave to my family."

RAIL RATE SECTION SUSPENSION URGED

Washington, December 10.—The position of President Coolidge that suspension of the preferential rail-rate section of the merchant marine act should be continued pending further study of the question by congress is supported in recommendations of the president's special committee on coordination of railroad and steamship transportation. The committee, in a report of its conclusions published today, recommends other specific measures which appear from its six months' study of the coordination problem to offer immediate advantages in shaping a national policy along this line.

The report, transmitted to the president by Secretary Hoover, who was appointed to the committee with the chairmen of the shipping board and interstate commerce commission and railroad and steamship representatives, lists first among its recommendations a more extensive quotation by the shipping board of through rail and ocean rates. As creating an advantage in the use of American flag ships, it urges also more extensive use of the uniform through bill of lading prescribed by the interstate commerce commission.

The committee further recommends that American ships cooperate with the railroads in facilitating small-lot shipments. Another conclusion advanced is that no hindrance should be placed in the way of railroads undertaking the operation of American flag overseas shipping lines.

"Early Mailing" Campaign Pushed By Postmaster

With Christmas only two weeks off, Atlanta postoffice officials are pushing a vigorous campaign for early Christmas shopping and mailing in order that the postoffice may not be swamped at the last hour.

To cope with the situation Postmaster E. K. Large has added 80 trucks to the force and has employed about 450 new employees for the Yuletide season.

As part of the "Shop-Early, Mail-Early" campaign, Postmaster Large has had printed 50,000 cards, bearing instructions as to how to wrap and mail packages and urging everyone to mail early. These cards are being distributed over the city by carriers.

The Georgia Railway & Power Co. also is displaying placards in conspicuous places on street cars presenting the "Shop-Early, Mail-Early" idea.

$3,000,000 SHIPPED TO GERMAN BANKERS

New York, December 10.—The third shipment of gold by J. P. Morgan and company to the German Reichsbank, amounting to $3,000,000 today, brought the total withdrawals of proceeds from the sale of the German loan up to $10,000,000.

Considerable mystery surrounded the export of several smaller amounts, totaling about $1,000,000 which were said to be consigned to Sweden. It was reported in Wall street that Russia was the ultimate destination of these shipments, which were believed to have been made in connection with credits established here for payment for cotton and other commodities.

AS we have said before, there are other good brands of gasoline besides Pan-Am. Unfortunately, there is also inferior gasoline. Here's proof:

At the last semi-annual gasoline survey made by the U. S. Department of the Interior, 146 samples of gasoline were taken in ten different localities.

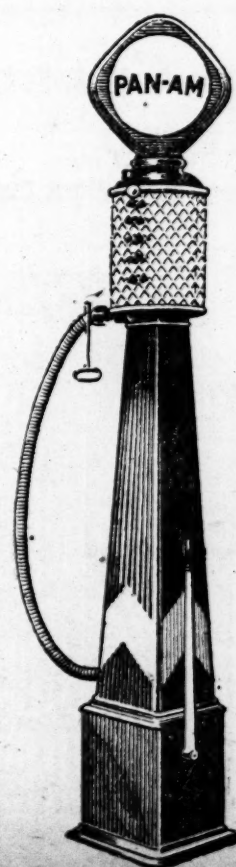

When tested, 76 failed to meet the federal specifications. That is 52 per cent.

Your safety lies in never buying just "gasoline." Stick to recognized and proved brands.

Pan-Am Gasoline is even better than called for in the Navy Specifications. Furthermore, it never varies. It is of the same high quality whenever and wherever you get it. Remember this when you see a Pan-Am pump.

Four other acts and the feature, "The Lover of Camille."

Up-to-date originalities are interwoven attractively with a breath of old time minstrelsy in the act of the "Five Jolly Crows" minstrel performers, par excellence, who appear at Keith's Forsyth theater the last three days of this week as the headlining feature of the program.

Also the bill includes four other acts of good quality and a news reel.

"North of 36."

The Irvin-Willat-Paramount production, "North of 36," a screen version of the novel by Emerson Hough, author of "The Covered Wagon," is the attraction at the Howard. Jack Holt, Lois Wilson, Ernest Torrence and Noah Berry are in the wonderful cast. The "Sunshine Kiddies," that wonderful troupe of kids, is the fourth anniversary celebration prologue.

Norma Talmadge's "The Girl in the Red Velvet Gown" is the most gorgeous ever staged in Hollywood.
The scene was the most gigantic ever erected for Norma. All the medieval splendor of a vast cathedral, added to the wealth of costume and decoration and the chanting of a specially selected choir, gave the filming of the picture a setting of unusual beauty.

Atlanta school students, already well acquainted with the ancient and honorable Saturday night bath, soon will be initiated into the mysteries of "The Story of the Bath," and may learn the reasons for their weekly torture, to attention of a booklet by that title has been adopted by Atlanta public schools as a part of the supplementary reading course in the sixth grades.

The book outlines the history of the bath since the day when primitive man and woman used the only tub they knew—the nearest lake or river. Authorities have declared it one of the best treatises on personal sanitation ever written.
More than 5,000 copies of the booklet have been placed at the disposal of Atlanta schools by the women's auxiliary of the Atlanta Association of Master Plumbers. The books were brought to attention of William A. Sutton, superintendent of schools, by a committee composed of Mrs. S. S. Shepard, Mrs. C. J. Warner and Mrs. Richard O'Hara.

Four-State Area Considered Likely National Forest Site As Special Commission Meets

Three Sites Considered in As Many States on Eve of Final Meeting of Members.

Washington, D. C., December 10.—(Special.)—Members of the National park commission, appointed last spring by Secretary Work, of the interior department, to decide upon some desirable location in the southern Appalachian mountains for a national park similar to the parks in the west, will meet Thursday to present their findings to congress. Before they can do this, however, they will have to harmonize among themselves three distinct schools of thought in the commission as to where the location should be.

One group is in favor of the Blue Ridge mountains of Virginia, beginning about 100 miles south of Washington, on the famous Lee highway; another group favors a park in the great Smoky mountains of Tennessee and North Carolina, running down almost to the Georgia line on the north and west, and still another group favors what may be termed a four-state park, embracing a mountain area at the intersection of North and South Carolina, Tennessee and Georgia.

The availability of law, however, in the latter proposal is the big issue, as the national forests embrace much of the desired territory for recreational purposes they are regarded desirable as a national park, if not more so. Indications are the commission will recommend that congress establish two national parks in the east, one in Virginia and another in the Smoky mountains, running down close to the Georgia line.

Report Friday Night.

Secretary Work probably will receive the report Friday evening when he presides at the commission's meeting at his home. It is expected that he will make known the selection in newspapers Sunday morning.

Mr. Work has indicated that he will wish, at least, that much time to study the report and draw his own conclusions before submitting the decision to public discussion.

Members of the commission believe that the east is entitled to at least two national parks. The west already has 17, distant Hawaii one, and there is another very small national reservation just off the coast of California. The contention is that unless both of the areas under most serious consideration are acquired immediately they will be spoiled for national park purposes through commercial exploitation of their forest wealth.

It has been pointed out by the commissioners, all experts in the field of national parks, that whatever money congress appropriated for the reservations now eventually would be returned to the treasury, with interest, through the millions of dollars that would be spent in the every year by the tourists who would make them their playgrounds.

Rich in History.

In the proposed Blue Ridge area, only 90 miles from Washington over the newly-built Lee highway, which begins at Luray, with the famous Stony Man mountain, and ends near Staunton, rich in historic memories, there would not be a month of the year that the park would not be open for the use of the public.

It is generally conceded that there will be a determined fight between Virginia and Tennessee before congress over the matter of which area will be developed first, should both be recommended by Secretary Work in addition to the commissioners, for it is the approval of the interior department head that will count most on that question with congress.

The first suggestion for a national park in the southern Appalachian mountains was made by The Atlanta Constitution, and the official investigation has been due entirely to the efforts of that newspaper to have the east recognized in park area.

Georgia To Benefit.

It matters not whether the park directly touches Georgia or not, the fact that there is a national park in the southeastern states will be of inestimable value to Georgia and all the other states of the Appalachian range, it is pointed out.

In the meantime Congressman Lee, of Georgia, has just secured an appropriation of $1,000,000 for national forest purchases, this being one of the items of the general appropriation bill. This will enable the forestry bureau to fall in and consolidate its Georgia forest area in such a way that that state will enjoy perhaps the largest government playground in America.

District Forester Reed, at luncheon with the writer today, declared the forestry bureau immediately would place $200,000 at the disposal of the Georgia highway commission for road construction in the Toccoa basin, and that before summer, at least, a dozen new camp and recreation sites would be opened in the Cherokee and Nantahala reservations in Georgia.

This means that these reservations will be thrown open to the public and that within another year Georgia's mountains will be among the most famous and among the most used for recreational purposes in America, it is believed.

POSTOFFICE DRAFTS RATE INCREASE BILL

Washington, December 10.—A bill to increase and adjust postal rates so as to permit a $65,000,000 advance in the pay of postal employees is being drafted at the postoffice department at the request of Chairman Sterling, of the senate postoffice committee.

It is the purpose of Senator Sterling to present a measure which will so lower the losses on the handling of various kinds of mail to meet the pay increase which President Coolidge has vetoed. He wants the veto message referred to his committee so that action can be taken in the light of the recent report of a postal commission on the cost of performing various classes of mail service.

While the South Dakota senator has not gone into details as to the increases in the various classes he expects the committee's report to form a basis of action. The report was that the government is losing about $40,000,000 a year, chiefly in handling second, third and fourth-class and registry mail.

Meantime, Senator Edge, republican, New Jersey, is seeking action on the president's veto of the pay increase bill passed last session. The New Jersey senator, however, also favors a readjustment of mail rates so as to provide the necessary revenue for the pay raise.

COLORED CHURCH LEADERS HOLDING ANNUAL MEETING

The fifty-fifth session of the Georgia annual conference of the colored Methodist Episcopal church is being held at the Hotel Chatham and Chamberlain streets. The conference is being attended by about three hundred ministers and delegates.

Rev. E. S. Williams of Augusta is presiding over sessions which are being held daily from nine o'clock to two o'clock.

Bishop R. S. Carter of Chicago, Bishop N. C. Cleaves of St. Louis, and several general officers of the church, are taking part in the work of the conference. Special attention is being given to inter-racial matters and a special committee has been appointed to make a report concerning this special work.

Ministers from the five presiding elders districts will make their reports on the work of the year at today's session. The conference will close Sunday with the morning service when pastoral assignments for the ensuing year will be read by the bishop.

Special exercises will be held upon the educational work of the church in the state. An educational rally is being planned at which it is expected that several thousand capitalists are here in conference with C. C. Thomas, secretary of the local chamber of commerce, and negotiations have not gone far enough for any definite announcement. It is said, yet it is known that they are pleased with Griffin, and attracted to it by its splendid advantages as a textile center.

ARMY ENGINEERS PLAN WORK IN DIXIE WATERS

Washington, December 10.—Major General Taylor, chief of army engineers, has transmitted to congress reports of examinations and surveys completed by army engineers and containing their recommendations for various waterways, rivers and harbor improvements.

In the examination of Amite river and Bayou Manchac, Louisiana, the engineers have found that improvements are deemed advisable to the extent of providing a substitute for the existing project a channel sixty feet wide and seven feet deep at mean low water from Lake Maurepas to Port Vincent, and for the removal of obstructions at an estimated cost of $5,000.

The survey of Pasquotank river at Elizabeth City said it was believed advisable to improve the channel, providing a 100-foot width, 10 feet deep at the entrance to Knappa creek, at a cost of $6,500.

Improvement of Mulberry creek, Virginia, and dredging a channel six feet deep at mean low water, and 100 feet wide, at an estimated cost of $2,500 was recommended.

The engineers approved plans for dredging in Charleston harbor, South Carolina, to a depth of 30 feet at mean low water and an irregular area opposite the foot of Calhoun street, at an estimated cost of $25,000.

A channel 100 feet deep at mean low water and 60 feet wide, at Slidell, and deep water in Lake Ponchartraine, Louisiana, was recommended at an estimated cost of $22,000, provided certain conditions of local cooperation were complied with by state authorities.

Shot and Killed Girl School Mate, Boy Confesses

Camden, N. J., December 10.—Stanley Curtis, 16-year-old school boy of Fairview, confessed today, according to Prosecutor Wescoat, that he shot and killed Betsy Ross, his 16-year-old schoolmate. The girl was found dead in the home of her sister, with whom she lived in Gloucester, and when Curtis was questioned, he first said she had shot herself.

According to Prosecutor Wescoat the boy broke down after an all-night examination. Curtis said he and the girl had quarreled over some improper pictures she found in his possession. He put a bullet in the pistol he had in his pocket, walked toward her and pulled the trigger. He said he did not know why he did it, but admitted he was angry.

The boy and girl were alone in the house when the shooting occurred. The body was found by the sister, Mrs. Margaret Bell, when she returned home. Curtis was arrested at the home of another school boy and taken to the Bell home and accused of the shooting. He denied it, explaining to the police that the girl had picked up the weapon from a table pointed it at the ceiling and snapped the trigger. He missed the shot, and then she pointed it at him and it again missed fire. Next she pointed the pistol at herself and this time the weapon worked.

The boy could not explain why three of the pictures were clutched in her hand when she was found dead. He said that the Ross girl had been friends for two years, and he was almost a daily visitor at her home. He is the son of Mrs. Anna Mathis.

MARKETS

NEW HIGH SEEN IN GRAIN MARKET

Marking Up of Call Money Rate Brings Severe Break

The Day in Finance

BY R. L. BARNUM

New York, December 10.—There are many people in Wall street who for one reason or another watch the stock market closely from day to day without having a personal interest in declining or advancing prices. Such judgment is looked upon as being the stock market indicated. In such quarters today's action of the stock market indicated a slight advance. In the best banking circles here the hope was expressed that there would be a substantial setback to get the technical position of the market stronger for the expected January rise.

Steel common was selling at its new high price for the year when the United States corporation unfilled tonnage report showing the foregoing favorable news on the steel industry was issued. An increase of 566,000 tons was made possible, but instead of advancing on this good news steel common broke two points from the high of the day with the rest of the market following. To disinterested onlookers it was plain that many holders of long stocks were awaiting good news on which to sell. In the decline many "stop loss" orders were reported thus insuring holders of long stocks a certain percentage of their paper profits.

When the stock markets began to sell off Wall street was filled with rumors that the federal reserve bank here would at the close of the stock market today hold its regular weekly meeting and increase its rediscount rate. There is no question but that rates on business money are somewhat firmer and that the easiest money market of this year has already been witnessed. It is also true that the money market on December 15 will be called on for heavy requirements including government financing, payment income taxes, corporation financing and interest and dividend payments. Between now and December 15 the market will be expected to see money rates rise. But they also expect to see an easier situation after December 15 with no change in the federal reserve rediscount rate here until the general commodity markets show more signs of inflation than are now apparent.

As a result of the heavy December 15 requirements a number of banks today called loans made to stock exchange houses. Following the calling of these loans the rate on call money advanced to 4 per cent. An exact dividend of $2 a share was declared today by the directors of the Singer Manufacturing company in addition to the regular quarterly $1.75.

Directors of Woolworth met today and wrote down the item of "good will" in the balance sheet $20,000,000. Profit and loss surplus was reduced by $100,000,000. This reduction will be made good, it is believed by this year's surplus earnings over and above dividend requirements. The present Woolworth company started in 1912 with $15,000,000 preferred stock and $50,000,000 common, both representing good will. Since then the preferred stock has been retired with surplus earnings over and above dividends and "good will" has been reduced $40,000,000, or from $50,000,000 to $10,000,000. The maintenance of a 35 per cent dividend brought the outstanding common stock which now has a par value of $25 to $95 a million. The company has no other capital liability.

R. S. Lovett, formerly executive head of Union Pacific, resigned today as director and member of the finance committee of the New York Central and C. B. Seger, who several years ago resigned from the Union Pacific management to become executive head of United States Rubber, was appointed on the New York Central board to succeed Mr. Lovett in representing Union Pacific's New York Central holdings.

THOMAS INCE'S DEATH WILL NOT BE PROBED

San Diego, Calif., December 10.—No official investigation will be made into the death of Thomas H. Ince, motion picture producer, at least as far as San Diego county officials are concerned, according to a statement made today by District Attorney Chester C. Knappe.

"I am satisfied that the death of Thomas H. Ince was caused by heart failure as the result of an attack of Ince was due to natural causes, there is no reason why an investigation should be made."

Three score Atlanta members of the Pi Kappa Phi fraternity observed Founder's Day Wednesday night with an elaborate dinner meeting at the Georgian Terrace hotel, brief addresses by old and new members of the national fraternity interspersed with interesting bits of history in the beginning and growth of the fraternity were related by prominent members, and through the evening devoted to renewed efforts to make the incoming year one of the greatest for Pi Kappa Phi success in the long history of the organization. Since dinner meetings were held in many of the largest cities and universities, from California to Maine, it was announced, messages in the form of greetings from other gatherings and from members who were unavoidably absent were read and widely cheered.

New York, December 10.—An early advance in today's cotton market carried the price of January up to 23.04, or 27 points above the low level of yesterday, and 22 points net higher. Offers increased above the 23-cent level, however, with the south a moderate seller and prices weakened in the afternoon under liquidation. January reacted to 22.75 and closed at 22.81, the general market closing steady, net 3 points higher, to 3 points lower.

The opening was steady at an advance of 3 to 12 points in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables, with some early trade buying reported. The apparent persistency of the trade demand seemed to cause recent uneasiness and a flurry of covering sent prices up to 23.04 for December, and 23.40 for March, or about 13 to 23 points net higher.

The bulk of the demand appeared to have been supplied at these figures by southern sellers and buyers. The market weakened in the early afternoon when there was some Wall Street selling, accompanied by talk of a less satisfactory tone in the stock market.

Prices reacted to 22.65 for December, and 23.11 for March, but the close was a few points up from the lowest, on covering and trade buying encouraged by reports of a firmer spot situation in the southwest.

Some of the forenoon buying was attributed to reports that the futures were running very tight in the Carolinas and Georgia, and that bales recently received in Oklahoma also were well below 500 pounds. These reports were regarded as tending to confirm the government crop estimate last Monday, in spite of the heavy ginning figures. It was rumored that private returns pointed to domestic mill consumption of 510,000 bales for November, compared with 535,000 for October, and 560,000 last year.

Exports today 31,047 bales, making 3,542,847 so far this season. Port receipts 51,298. U. S. port stocks, 1,570,337.

SPOTS IN NEW YORK

New York, December 10.—Cotton spot quiet; middling 22.25.

DULL MARKET AT NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, December 10.—The cotton market was decidedly dull to quiet with narrow trading and a limited range of fluctuations. During the morning session the trend was upward. Liverpool was better than due and moderate trade buying developed which rendered shorts cautious.

There was also more or less covering. The market turned easier around noon, due to reports there was an unsatisfactory demand for spots and the outlook for forward business was not promising. Prices eased off slowly and finally made new lows late in the afternoon but held in the end, closing unchanged for the day.

Responding to better cables, the market opened at an advance of 7 to 7 points, and gradually advanced during the morning on quiet absorption of contracts by trade interests and some covering. 19 to 21 points above yesterday's close. The afternoon reaction carried the market 18 to 20 points down from the highs and practically to a level with yesterday's close. There was a slight rally in the late trading and the close showed no change for December and net gains for the day of 2 to 4 points on later positions.

The market appeared to be in a very uncertain mood, the entire session, with little inclination to trade on either side of the account. A heavy demand for near term contracts was met in a much larger consumption this year is the main sustaining influence. Exports for the day totaled 32,619 bales. The export receipts for this season over last has reached 3,522,396 bales.

SPOTS IN NEW ORLEANS

Stock Letters.

FENNER & BEANE.

New York, December 10.—The first two hours of the market were characterized by considerable activity on the conservative side, with a general upward movement in unfilled orders amounting to over 500,000 tons was well received as this statement was somewhat above expectations. Steel continued to advance rapidly to 1916, but at this point heavy selling appeared and buying orders during the balance of the day were not sufficient to hold the market around the level which prevailed during the forenoon. Part of this selling was due to the fact that some financial resources were limited. The selling continued well into the afternoon, when it was finally checked by a strong demand which continued up to the close. This support brought about a general recovery in the main body of stocks in the final dealing, and in certain instances, operations for the day were resumed. May Department Stores, Maxwell Motors & Postum Cereal and Bosch Magneto were among those which advanced sharply in the face of the reactionary trend of the day. The list. Total sales amounted to 2,000,100 shares, and the closing time was quite irregular with Steel, Baldwin, American Can, East from Pipe, General Electric, American Wire Works, Rock Island and many other issues off from 1 to 3 points.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

New York, December 10.—The word break since election came in the early afternoon trading. Stocks were quite active on the decline and losses extended from 1 to 5 points. The selling was accompanied by reports that the New York Federal reserve discount rate would be increased at this afternoon's meeting. In the last hour enough support appeared to check the selling and to send a good many stocks up a point or so. This buying did not carry through very well, however, and some selling developed again before the close. Prices were consequently lower. The reaction seemed to start when Steel made no response to the bullish unfilled tonnage statement. Special stocks, however, were able to continue their advance. Postum Cereal, Maxwell Motor Issues, May Department Stores and Bosch Magneto were issued to show a stronger tone than the general market. Total sales, 2,000,000.

New York, December 10.—The market presents no new feature. Speculative interest remains against it, selling on moderate upturns. Careful observers express the opinion that a large interest on the short side now exists in expectation of heavy pressure from the actual prior to the holidays. The persistent demand for heavy shorts is, however, kept short rather more since that is absorbing many contracts on a scale of a few hundred tons at a time. Careful observers express the opinion that a large interest on the short side now exists in expectation of heavy pressure from the actual prior to the holidays. The persistent demand for heavy shorts is, however, kept short rather more since that is absorbing many contracts on a scale of a few hundred tons at a time. SUNSHINE PELLETS
BY DR. W. F. THOMSON

Wise—that teacher
Who appreciates
What fresh air means—
And ventilates.

The automobile has annihilated both distance and pedestrian.

Too often, in the past, the oyster cocktail was a typhoid cocktail.

While keeping the home fires burning let us not forget to keep the home atmosphere moist.

Oh, the little red stars
In the little red school;
The windows were down
And cold were the rule.

He'll live to win full many a fight
Who sleeps beneath the stars at night.

Let's not deceive ourselves about being "Threatened with pneumonia";
Pneumonia makes no threats.

There is vicarious motherhood when the pampered poddle is the recipient of human mother-love.

Yon merchant wields a wicked broom.
Sweeping patrons to their doom;
Filling nostrils with his dust
And consumers with disgust.

Many of us proudly exhibit pedigrees of our blooded dogs when there isn't a scratch of the pen to show that our children have ever been born.

Great Achievements of Atlanta Music Club Spontaneous Growth From Small Beginning

Miss Oleo Robinson, of Clifton road, Atlanta, on the left, and Mrs. John Doig, of Milwaukee, Wis., who, assisted by the late Miss Isma Dooly, originated the movement which resulted in the present great Atlanta Music club. Mrs. Doig, first president of the club, is at present director of a large church choir in Milwaukee. Miss Robinson's photograph was made by Thurston Hatcher.

BY MRS. M'CORD ROBERTS.

Today brings for the fifth time that delightful aggregation of musicians, the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra. A few weeks ago Jeritza sang for us and threw in by way of boot that unforgettable picture she presented of gold piled a gold. Sunday we revelled in the melody that came from our own Symphony orchestra, yesterday our Atlanta Music club held a board meeting. Nearly every week Atlanta responds en masse to the best in music and concert succeeds concert, with ever-increasing interest and approval from the general public.

But it was not ever thus. Few years and quick ones take us back to the moment when Atlanta turned a deaf ear to the music which had been written in the hearts of even such marvelous voices as Tetrastini and Sembrich and to many another wonder soloist on violin and piano.

Began Accidentally.

It all began, as many great things do, accidentally. Cable hall was unexpectedly gobbled up one Monday evening in the second week of May, 1915, by a mere speaker, and a small community chorus, which had been rehearsing there, led by Dr. Kraft, then city organist, found itself upon the sidewalk. It promptly accepted an invitation from Miss Oleo Robinson, one of its members, to adjourn to her studio in the old Francis building, at that time a studio apartment house. More talking than singing took place at that momentous little gathering.

Next morning Mrs. John Doig, a chorus member, and some half a dozen other members of the chorus returned to Miss Robinson's studio to organize a music club. All summer the tiny club met in this studio, calling itself the Wednesday Afternoon Music club, and grew more and more determined that Atlanta should be roused to greater interest in things musical. In September another step was taken. This time it was a call made by Miss Oleo Robinson and Mrs. John Doig upon the great citizen of our community, the late Miss Isma Dooly, of The Constitution. Always alert and progressive, always responsive and generous to new undertakings, Miss Dooly gave the benefit of her abundant knowledge to Mrs. Doig and Miss Robinson, and between these three it was agreed that a bold stroke should be made—which was the signal to the city, and to that end a music meeting has been called for next Wednesday afternoon in Cable hall, the meeting to come to order at 3:30 o'clock. All musically inclined women in the city are invited to attend. The object of the association, as set forth by Mrs. John Doig, is to study music seriously—opera, the history of the music, and to that end the various branches of the art, and to give public recitals from time to time.

"Mrs. Doig, Miss Oleo Robinson, Mrs. Albert Herzog and Mrs. L. T. Thompson are among the principal promoters of the movement, which has already brought forth the Wednesday Afternoon Music club, which for a number of months has been affording its fourteen members much satisfaction."

Of this meeting the press said: "For the furtherance of musical interests in Atlanta and the earnest study of music in all its phases the Woman's Music Study club has been organized. The officers of the club are: President, Mrs. John Doig; vice president, Mrs. Elizabeth Pillow Oliver; secretary, Mrs. Walter Bedard; treasurer, Mrs. Dean E. Ryman. The board of directors is formed of the officers and Miss Furlow Anderson, Miss Oleo Robinson, Mrs. Albert Herzog and Mrs. McCord Roberts. Wilford Watters will direct the ladies' chorus, with Mrs. Walter Bedard, accompanist, and Mrs. Frank Hues, chorus registrar. Chorus rehearsals are to be held every Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock and all ladies who feel interested in and love music are invited to attend the rehearsals or join the chorus. Committee members include: By-laws, Mrs. M. A. Hale, chairman; Mrs. Conrad Bibbeler, Miss Mary Butt Griffith. Publication of programs and by-laws, Mrs. R. R. Bradley, chairman; Mrs. Frank Hues, Miss Furlow Anderson. Program committee, Mrs. Percy H. Cox, chairman; Mrs. J. R. Byington, Miss Oleo Robinson, Miss Evelyn Jackson. An open meeting will be held Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock in the Phillips & Crew building."

Ad Refused.

Doubling Thomases and Jennies were plentiful.

"Who are the ladies who are interested?" was the question asked by one lady of high degree, in reply to a telephone call from Miss Robinson.

velous presidents and led the club to greatness, were participants in the MacDowell celebration—held on Uncle Remus' birthday, and by Mrs. MacDowell made into an Uncle Remus celebration. For one of the beautiful incidents of that day was the gift made by Mrs. MacDowell to Mrs. A. McD. Wilson and the officers of the Uncle Remus association who attended in honor of Mrs. MacDowell. This gift was a volume of Uncle Remus, which had been a continuous solace to MacDowell during his last illness.

From her present home in Milwaukee, Wis., Mrs. Doig recently wrote to Miss Oleo Robinson: "Hard plugging on the part of the few who were truly interested in what put the club across. I so well remember when we out-rev your studio how you and I alone were to The Atlanta Constitution, and asked for their support in getting the idea of club before the people. They certainly gave their help and we succeeded. I am glad if it proves a success for you would help their new paper publicity we had a full house at our call meeting in Cable hall, and I well remember how you and I went alone, and gave us use of the hall. But they informed us, clubs had been formed before and after."

Mrs. Cox Springs Sensation. Fully in those first milestones passed by the club in its progress toward musical Atlanta. The first proposal made by Mrs. Percy Cox to bring to Atlanta the Flozalez quartet, Mrs. Cox sprang the proposal at an open meeting and nearly broke up the club. Quite a money was involved, and nobody had ever heard of Atlanta's spending quite a bit of money to hear only a string quartet. In discussion of the directors' meeting which followed it was admitted that each director would probably have to underwrite the concert for something like $25, with every prospect of writing a review to cover the deficit when the concert ended. And here this reminiscence properly ends, for the remainder is written into the annals of Atlanta and all the world knows that the Flozalez came, played and conquered and that the march of the Atlanta Music Study club—its name changed later to the Atlanta Music club—is to this day one of steady progress and of civic pride. Truly, where women will there is a way!

BLUE RIBBON FICTION

SYNOPSIS.

Palmyra Tree, on board the yacht Rainbow, which is leaving the California coast for the south seas, is startled to see a sinewy brown hand with a black lace mitt on it thrust through her porthole window. Palmyra is loved by two men, John Thurston and Van Buren Burke. She is not certain which man she loves. Palmyra determines to unmask the owner of that sinister hand, but tells no one her purpose. She discovers Ponape Burke, who confesses that he is a scoundrel of coolies and opium. Burke permits her a glimpse of a savage brown man, Olive, hiding with him. Palmyra does the savage brown man a good turn. Palmyra gradually convinces herself she is in love with Van Buren Burke. Burke and Olive leave the yacht at Honolulu, and Palmyra's engagement to Van Buren is announced. The yacht Rainbow is wrecked. The party lands on an uninhabited island, faced with starvation. Ponape Burke appears on the Pigeon of Noah and promises to rescue them. Palmyra goes on board alone to investigate and finds herself a prisoner.

INSTALLMENT XVI.

PALMYRA IS KIDNAPED.

Palmyra's voice rose in surprise, "Oh, but they're not going already?"

Burke looked, grinning, from her to the naked savages of his crew. "Sort of wild like, eh?" he asked.

But Johansen reassured her: "I'm ordered to stay, miss."

But from behind a hand closed on her wrist.

He really felt Thurston had meant all three to remain so long as she was aboard. But he saw no sense in this, chose to give the order his own interpretation.

Burke shot him a glance. "Sure." Then to the other two: "Johansen'll tinker up the motor, so next trip, the launch won't have t'be pulled in."

A minute later the boat had cast off and the sailors were settling to their work. Johansen, watching them, stood negligently at the rail. "Handle her gentle, boys," called Burke. "She's getting old."

The boat was now clear by perhaps ten fathoms. Suddenly, Ponape Burke, with an agility unexpected in that plump body, leaped forward and lunged at the unsuspecting Johansen's back. The next second the sailor was in the water.

Burke whirled, whipped out an order, sprang to the wheel. The kanakas worked like mad. Another order and the sails filled, the deck listed down and the Pigeon of Noah was under way.

The man at the wheel burst into that tittering laugh of his, now strained, false, sharp edged with excitement, exultation. "Remember, girl?" he cried. "Below on the Rainbow—night black? Wanted t' scare 'em a bit, says you? Pirates, bucket o' blood?" His laugh rose into a crow of triumph. "Well, kid, what about this here? Give 'em a hell of a startle, eh, Palmyra?"

As the Lupe-a-Noa fled away, the girl ran to the rail and sent over the water a frantic cry.

In the boat the two men sat, rigid, their oars poised. The red face of Johansen emerged from the sea, dripping, blank with incredulity, convulsed with anger. Ponape Burke's strategy had deprived them of the launch in which they could have overhauled the schooner.

Ashore, the castaways stood perplexed, alarmed. Palmyra's action, rather than her voice, threw them into panic. They pointed, shouted, ran here and there, futile, absurd.

To Van Buren Burke rushed the girl's mother with something in her hands. It was a rifle. As one of his accomplishments, Van Buren had won trophies on the range. But now, confronted by the violence his training had taught him never touched the life of a gentleman, he faltered, paled in a fear of wounding the girl herself.

Then John Thurston snatched the rifle. There was a flash and a bullet struck the Lupe-a-Noa, shattering the glass on the binnacle. A second flash, and Burke himself staggered back. But before the schooner could fall off, he clutched the wheel again with one hand. As his left arm hung, the spot of blood, spreading slowly on the white cotton, was like some brilliant blossom.

Burke bellowed his rage. These oaths would have been shockingly incongruous had not the infantile features become, under the illuminating emotion, weirdly adult. "Damn him!" he cried, "I was half minded 'go about and say it was a joke. But now, by the eternal God, I'll see it through."

He had swung the vessel over so that Palmyra, all unaware, stood in the line of fire. Thurston could not shoot again.

The kanaka crew, at the wounding of their master, had broken for cover. Eyes, staring white in dark faces, peered from every skulking place. Burke's temper transferred itself to his men. He snatched out the revolver. There was a report. One of the brown seamen, with a yelp, dropped the remaining fragment of a jug that had been dangling from his hand. A roar of laughter, not of amusement but of propitiation. They sprang to their stations, alacrity during the danger of shore rather than a second shot from their own quarter deck.

At this triumph of discipline, Burke regained his good humor. The wound had proved to be unimportant. "John's the only man in that bunch," he conceded amiably. "If he was stealing my girl I'd give him more'n a sore arm."

Palmyra was desperate. Behind her, her hand closed on an iron belaying pin. "You—you brute!" she cried. "Turn—this—vessel—back. Turn it back instantly!"

Ponape Burke shouted with laughter. Her courage, her spirit delighted him. "Pirate blood, says you! Bonny lass. Pirate blood in yer veins."

She jerked the pin from its socket; took a step toward him, her eyes aflame. "You go back to that island—"

The muscles of her own splendid body toned by a lifetime of outdoor play, she would have been no mean antagonist for a plummy little man with dangling arm. But he beamed upon her. "What?" he cried. "Brain a guy, would you? I always did say y'had the nerve for a life like this. But that, that Van!" He sought for, failed to find, an epithet sufficiently withering. "You his wife," he jeered. "Why, the first row y'had you'd scare him t'death."

A sob broke from the girl's lips. She would have hurled herself upon him. But from behind, a hand closed on her wrist. Olive, grinning, took the belaying pin from her fingers, as if they had been a baby's, and returned it to the rack.

Palmyra sank against the cabin, helpless. As Olive, presently, freed his master of the blood wet coat, she saw that, in addition to the arm holster she had glimpsed, Burke wore on the other side a second weapon.

He noted the scrutiny with a complacent grin. Holding up one of the revolvers he gazed at it with an expression oddly like veneration. "That's me," he announced. "My soul, everything I am. Without it—" he shrugged expressively. "Old Col. Colt sure did even things up for us little men." There was real enthusiasm in this benefactor of the undersized. "Before him, the first husky along took what he wanted. But not since. With this I don't dip my colors t'none o' 'em. I just stand pat on my gat. I don't ask no favors and don't grant none. I keep what I got and get what I can."

While Olive dressed the wound, Burke's mind reverted to the launch and its cargo. Mirth came, uproarious, elemental. Was it not clever the way he'd tricked 'em out of that fine launch, their only hope of reaching another island?

But in the midst of his satisfaction he stopped short to explain why he hadn't tried for more of the Rainbow stores. Professional pride required her to understand. He'd have known he could have got more—all he wanted. Just let 'em keep coming out. That was easy. But a man had to draw the line somewhere. Had to be decent. Things might have shaped so he'd have had to get rough with her folks. And she wouldn't have liked 'em left on short rations.

Even at that, though, he exulted, it was like a regular Christmas tree; liquors for him and fancy tinned goods for her, and cartridges and—yes, would y'have thought it possible!—some fool had even chucked in the strong box full of cash!

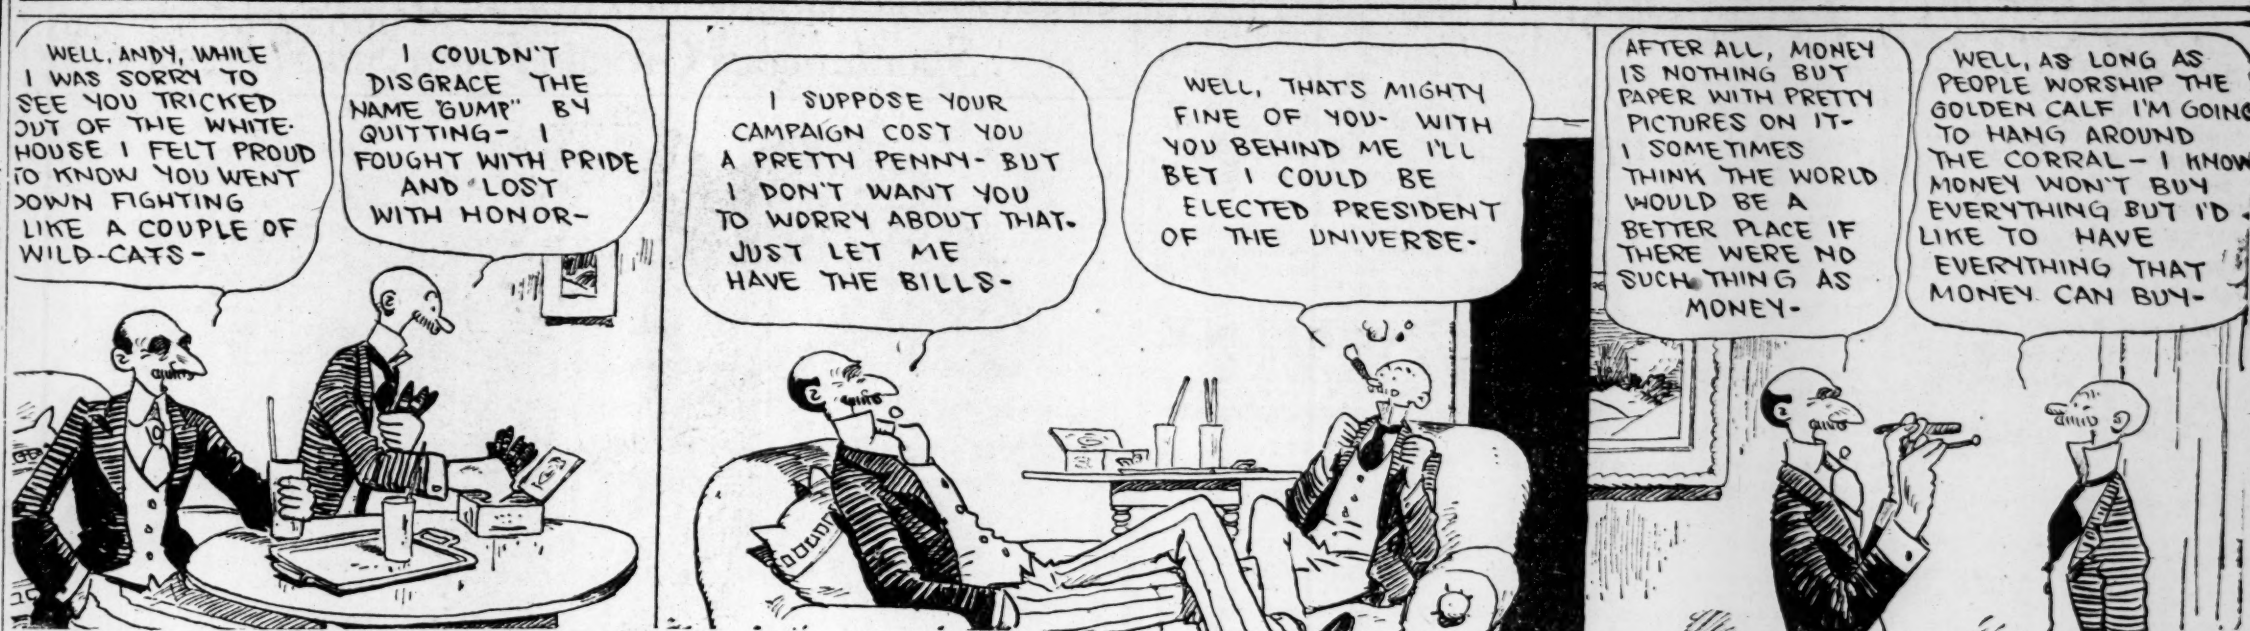

She interrupted him—why did you wreck the yacht?"

He was surprised, indignant. "Aue—e—e," he cried, "ver stacking up unexpectedlike on that reef might have spoiled everything."

NEW IDEAS IN THE RADIO FIELD.
By Dr. Walter E. Traprock.
It was I who first suggested the idea of the radio to Marconi, and I have always kept one or two jumps ahead of the next fellow.
One of the latest devices which I have perfected is the bi-vocal set which can both receive and send messages. It has always bored me to have to listen without being able to answer back. Answering back is one of the divine rights of a person, and it is made possible by the Traprock Bi-vocal.
More important than this, however, is my latest development, the Traprock Radio Projectograph, which combines the wonderful powers of telephonic photography with the transmission qualities of broadcasting. In other words, I can put on the air what amounts to a vision of the scene from which the message is sent. I first tried this out with individual performances and found that in my experimental station I could not only hear, but actually see the actors in a musical comedy on a New York theater stage. A few days later I transported the entire Yale Bowl, containing 80,000 people, into the living room of my home. My aunt Abigail was so overcome by seeing so many people in the house that she fainted away, which was certainly a high tribute to the perfection of my device.

Of course I am not satisfied. My dream, which I am about to realize, is to be able to transport not the shadow but the substance, to send human physical bodies through space, with the speed of lightning, borne on the electric waves by the Traprock Radiosled. I will have the first one of these finished in a few weeks, and am now looking for a passenger.

THE EDITOR'S GOSSIP SHOP

The ingenuity of our contributors is truly remarkable. We say this sincerely. We hardly expected an average person to rise to heights which many professional writers can't gain.
We have received very many questions addressed to WALL'S THE MYSTIC which have been written in the same poetic form he uses, and written as cleverly as he writes his. So that hardly a change need be made in the question asked.
Whereas we expected the BALDPAPE contributions to require extensive re-writing, we find that many of them just need the rough edges trimmed off to reveal a clever piece of writing.
Go to it with more confidence than ever! There isn't a thing now appearing in THE FUN SHOP which some reader, here or there, can't equal.

At Writers' Club Dinner.

Reservations for the December dinner of the Atlanta Writers' club to be held this evening in the banquet hall of the Woman's club, at which the distinguished American author, Mr. Warde, will deliver a lecture on "Shakespeare and His Plays" as the outstanding feature, indicate a representative and brilliant gathering.

Fine Arts Club
Gives Entertainment.

On Tuesday afternoon when the younger generation of the Fine Arts club were entertained in the hall room of the Piedmont Driving club presented a charming setting.

Beautiful evergreens suggestive of the Christmas season were used to transform one side of the hall room into an out-of-door theater.

On a small stage in the midst of the green foliage, Miss Mary E. Goulden, in a costume of blue and white, presented the most charming group of children's songs ever heard here. In such numbers as "The Little Brown Bear," "Fiddle Dee Dee," the children found a special delight.

The grown-ups found themselves even more interested than the children in many of the songs, as they were carried back to instances of their own youth and they were delighted with the singing of Miss Goulden's voice, and at the end were clamoring for some of the songs from her grown-up repertoire. In "Happy Little Song" sung by Miss Goulden, Miss Newman gave a hint of some of the possibilities in her more difficult program. Mrs. Charles Chalmers, who accompanied her, did an unusually fine piece of work.

Among the youthful guests who enjoyed the program and remained for ice cream and cake, were: Gordon Kiser, Jr., Larry Givens, Glen Clarke, Hunter, Muse, Jr., Harriet Grant, Betty Chambers, Clair Haverly, Betty Gregg, Eleanor Terhune, Elise Terhune, Margaret Moore, Jacqueline Moore, Mary Louise Sciple, Charles Sciple, Jr., Paul Sciple, Jr., John Sciple, Bobby Troutman, Robert Alston, Mary, Edna, Adair, Charles Adair, Jr., Florence Brown, George Brown III, Howard Brown, Jr., David Brown, Jr., Betty Black, The Columbia Club, Louise Calhoun, Barbara Cese, Patricia Calhoun, Margaret Dunham, Beverly Doherty, Catherine Newman, Corbin Redding, Lillian Givens, Arkwright Giddings, Vesey Rainwater, Brown Rainwater, Virginia and Ann Hurt, Mary Goldard, Gordon Jones, Edith Johnson, James Ragan, Jr., Ethelyn Johnson and Horace Stringfellow.

MISTRIAL DECLARED
FIRMS RIOT CASE

Americus, Ga., December 10.—(Special.)—After considering the evidence during more than 18 hours, a jury in Sumter superior court this afternoon reported they were unable to reach a verdict in the case of Ed Holliday, alleged rioter.

Judge Littlejohn immediately discharged the jurors and the case will be set for trial later.

Leonard Whitfield, Bert Cain, J. E. Russell and Carl Williams, indicted jointly with Holliday, will be placed on trial this week.

The State alleges that Holliday and others named in the indictment, together with Ed Barber, went to the home of Robert Clark, a negro, and there attempted to punish Clark for following an alleged altercation between Holliday and the negro, Ed Barber, who was killed inside the cabin home of Clark during the fusillade of shots fired there.

The alleged riot occurred about midnight of January 16, last, on the farm of Dr. Bagley, in the river section of Sumter county.

BRYAN TO LAUNCH
MOVE TO STRESS
SANCTITY OF LIFE

Chicago, December 10.—(By the Associated Press.) William Jennings Bryan, vice moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian General Council, proposed in a resolution the launching of a movement to emphasize the sanctity of human life.

The general council, created by the last general assembly to sponsor coordination of the various denominational activities of the church, is meeting in connection with the National Presbyterian conference. The conference is attended by representatives of the national bodies, by members of the council and by delegates from states west of Ohio. A similar conference for eastern states will be held later.

Mr. Bryan, who is a member of the council, declared that a movement to emphasize the sanctity of life was needed because of the increasing number of suicides, homicides and fatal accidents due to negligence. He temporarily withdrew his resolution, announcing that he would recast and resubmit it later.

MY BEAUTY RECIPE

BY PEGGY HOPKINS JOYCE,
As Told to Diana Ware

PEGGY HOPKINS JOYCE

Peggy Hopkins Joyce is an American institution. She is known on all continents as the American girl, daughter of a barber in Virginia, whose beauty won her four millionaire husbands, five Rolls Royces and a million and a half dollars worth of jewelry.

Small wonder that people want to know the nature of her brilliance!

Arrived in her presence, we become in turn, her subject.

She was clinging and fragile. She wound tightly about her slim figure her orchid silver cloak with its folds of chinchilla fur. Her blue eyes looked out from under her ethereal like turban of filmy blonde hair.

Mrs. Charles Powell served punch of the groom, wore a lovely gown of orange chiffon effectively trimmed with maribou and ostrich.

Mrs. Edward Inman wore a beautiful gown of white chiffon with a trimming of crystal beads.

Mrs. Hugh Richardson's gown was of white georgette beaded in crystals and rhinestones.

Mrs. Joseph W. Cooper, of Philadelphia, wore a handsome gown of black trimmed with deep black silk fringe.

Sam Inman's gown was of black chiffon, with jet trimmings.

Mrs. Henry Inman wore a handsome gown of white georgette with a lovely trimming of crystal beads. Silver roses were caught on the older and at the left side.

Mrs. James McNeil wore a beautiful orchid gown fashioned over satin of the same color.

Miss Sarah Matthews, of Thompson, Ga., kept the bride's book and wore a beautiful gown of black and white heavily beaded in crystals and rhinestones. Her flowers were a corsage of orchids and valley lilies.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. James McKee, of Raleigh, N. C., Mr. and Mrs. J. Ernest Briscoe, of Knoxville, Tenn., and Mrs. Joseph W. Cooper, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Arthur Inman.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. McNeil left for a wedding journey to New York, and upon their return will be at home in Marietta, with Mr. McNeil's parents.

Mrs. McNeil traveled in a smart ensemble consisting of black and red, handsomely trimmed with red fox fur.

Families of Prominence.

The lovely bride, a representative of the distinguished Tennessee and Georgia families, is a granddaughter on her paternal side of the late Samuel M. Inman, an influential pioneer citizen, about her receding white hair and most in the upbuilding and early history of Atlanta. She is a granddaughter on her maternal side of the late Judge John Reese, a former county, a prominent and well-known Georgia jurist.

She received her education at Mary Baldwin in Staunton, Va., and at Mrs. Semple's in New York, and made her debut in Atlanta society in 1922-23, and was the popular president of the Debutante club, directing the social and civic activities of the club in a most interesting way, and a member of the Junior League.

During the first part of this year she traveled for several months in Europe, visiting all of the principal cities and traveling in England and on the continent. Possessing a sweet disposition and a charming graciousness of manner, Mrs. McNeil has been one of the most admired and attractive members of society. She is the daughter of the late John McNeil, a prominent and well-known Georgia jurist.

Mr. McNeil is a grandson on his paternal side of John S. McNeil, of Texas. His mother was before her marriage Miss Ada Freyer, and his grandmother on his maternal side is Mrs. Julia Freyer, born in England, and who is a member of the S. A. E. club in Marietta. He attended the Georgia School of Technology, where he was a member of the S. A. E. club. Mr. McNeil was in the front during the world war in the tank corps. He is a member of the Nine O'Clocks, Capital City club, Sediment Mining and East Lake Country club.

He is associated in business with his father, Morgan McNeil, Sr., president of the McNeil Marble company, in Marietta. His sisters are Mrs. DePoe, Miss Margaret McNeil and his brothers are Eugene and Frank McNeil, of Marietta.

Mrs. McNeil is one of the leading young business men of the south. He and his charming bride will make their home in Marietta with Mr. and Mrs. McNeil, Sr.

was leaning forward and buoyantly exclaiming in a brisk voice:

"Ten years from now men may no longer admire weakness in a woman. Who knows? One must watch. One must ever watch."

Then quite suddenly she had vanished out of her room, past the line of photographers who were waiting to picture her, past the line of people who were waiting to catch a glimpse of her, into her chaperon's room.

Tomorrow—Alice Brady, screen and stage actress.

SAVANNAH TAKES STEP TO DEVELOP HER PORT

Savannah, Ga., December 10.—(Special.)—What is believed to be the biggest stride forward Savannah has ever taken was signaled tonight at the meeting of council, when Gordon Sausser, member of council, and for four years leader of the council, for a state port, introduced an ordinance providing for a plan to tremendously develop the terminal and port facilities of Savannah, through the ordinance of the state constitutional amendment passed by the legislature and ratified by the people in November.

Provisions are made for the calling of bond elections to obtain funds for such development which, it is said, will bring to Savannah, through the great manufacturing, assembling and distributing concerns.

The ordinance creates the "Savannah port commission" and it is suggested that banking, railroad, shipping and other interests will be represented by strong men on the commission which will be composed of five men.

The ordinance will be published, discussed and thoroughly threshed out before it is put upon final passage.

The contemplated development under the ordinance heard for the first time tonight is immensely extensive than anything ever attempted by a southeastern port city.

ROUTHERBERG VERDICT
AFFIRMED BY COURT

Lansing, Mich., December 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—The conviction of Charles E. Rutherford for violation of the Michigan syndicalism act was affirmed by the Michigan supreme court today. The arrest and conviction of Rutherford followed a raid on a secret convention of the communist party of America in Detroit, in August, 1922, by federal agents and local officers.

Chicago, December 10.—Charles E. Rutherford, secretary of the Workers' Party of America, when informed today that the Michigan supreme court had affirmed his conviction on a charge of violating the Michigan syndicalism law, said that the case would be carried to the United States supreme court.
